CO-OPERATIVE CHRISTIANS.

AN ENSENADA LANDED PRO PRIETOR HAS A SCHEME.

He Wants to Bring Christian People Together in a Way that They Can Earn Their Own Living.

Associated Press Leased-wire Rerules SAN FRANCISCO, March 8.—G. W. Wilderman has a patent on a flouring mill and an interest in a tract of land near Ensenada, Mex. With these two possessions he proposes to revolutionize the work life of the Christian public by establishing a co-operative society composed entirely of professed and tried Christians

The or-ganization is to be known as the World's Christian Co-operative Society, and is to be incorporated upder the laws of Califor-Each individual joining the society is to pay $100. This money is to be used in developing mining lands to be purchased, building and operating flour mills, and, in fact, delving in every business known to the people of the world. M. Crindle have each donated 10,000 acres of land in Lower California to the society. The object in forming the society is to get Christian people together where they can earn their living under circumstances surrounded by the safeguards of church fellowship. All profits to be equally divided. The business of the society will be transacted by a board of directors, to be elected annually by the members. These directors are empowered to purchase lands, erect flouring mills, establish general stores, factories and such other places of business as they may deem fit. One of the principal features of the plan is to establish bakeries in San Francisco, and in that way use up the product of the flour mill, which is to be located within fifty miles of this city or Los Angeles. It is proposed to have 1000 Christians subscribe 3100 cach. If a person who is qualified, from a biblical standpoint, does not possess the requisite $100, he or she will be permitted to borrow the money they require from any one, and "the society will pledge the land." Although the gift deed will have the provision that the land must never be sold, it is expected that many people can be found who will loan money upon it with that understanding. So far $14 has been received.

Finding They Cannot Get into the Big Safe They Give Up the Job.

They Then Make Off with the Engine Which is Abandoned and Which Arrives at Lodi All by Associated Press Leasen wire Service.

STOCKTON, March 8.—The train known as the European Mail, which came through this city as special No. 3, was held un near Castle Switch, about four miles from this city, at 10:20 o'clock tonight. The robbers, of whom there were three, go nothing

The first news of the hold-up brought to Stockton by F. L. Sedgeley, a brakeman on the train. He came on the Oregon Express, which passed through ckton shortly after the European Mail and backed into Stockton from the scene of the robbery. Sedgeley said:

"It was 10:20 o'clock, and in the neigh borhood of Castle Switch that the train came to a stop. I was in one of the rear cars, and thinking it was a hold-up, go off immediately. When I reached the ground I heard several shots ahead, and started back to flag the Oregon Express which I knew would be coming alorg soon. I met the express a short distance from the city limits and came back aboard it. I don't know whether the robbers got any money or not.

The express was held until a posse of officers could be formed. Sheriff Cunningham was in Sacramento and Deputy Rob inson assumed charge. He was accompan-ied by Police Officers Carroll and Burnham, and Deputy Sheriff Black. "The train pulled out shortly after midnight with the officers, who intended to get off in the hood of the robbery and scour the country for the robbers. Word had already been received by telegraph that the rob bers, after making their attempt, had de engine and started toward Lodi on it, and had abandoned it before reach

FULL PARTICULARS. Full particulars of the robbery were re ceived from Lodi by telephone after the express train had left here. The engine of the European Mail rolled into Lodi at 11:05 o'clock, going very slowly with no one abcard, and registering but forty pounds of steam. George Andrews, the engineer of a freight train that was lying there waiting for the overland to po aboard and stopped her. A stick of dyna mite was found on the seat in the cab, and it was apparent that there had been a hold-Lodi officers took the engine of the freight train and went after the train that belonged to the unmanned engine, which is No. 1718. The got back to Lodi with the train at 12:15, and it proceeded north with its own engine. ENGINEER'S STORY.

The story of the holdup as told by Engineer Ingles of the train is as follows: "A short distance south of Castle Switch myself and Fireman House were startle an who crawled over the tender and. pointing a pistol at our heads, ordered us to stop the train. He was masked. I ed the engine, and the fellow then ordered us to get off, which we did. Two other masked men were standing on the ground waiting to receive us. They orlered us to walk back to the express car, which we did. After we had reached the express car the men told me to instruct the messenger to open the door, as they had dynamite and would blow it up if the door was not opened. I told the messenger this and he opened the door and then shut ot again, after which he fired two sho the robbers. A passenger stuck his head out of one of the windows and one of the robbers fired a shot at him.

"The men threatened again to blow the car to pieces with dynamite, if it was not opened, and the express messenger then complied with their demand. The men got inside, taking us with them, and ransacked the car. All the money was in the big safe and they did not try to open it. They got nothing whatever. After satisfying themselves that there was nothng of value outside of the safe, and that it was securely locked, they jumped out of the car and went ahead to the engine again, taking us with them.

Reaching the engine the men uncoupled it from the train and firing some shots in the direction of the passenger cars to scare their occupants, I suppose, pulled the throttle and the brake and started the throttle and the brake and started toward Lodi. A brakeman was sent back to Stockton by the conductor to fiag the Oregon Express, which was soon to come along, and we waited until the engine came from Lodi." A tramp who was stealing a ride on the blind baggage is the only person who can give a description, other than general, of any of the robbers. He stated at Lodi of any of the robbers. He stated at Lodi that when the train stopped he saw one of the robbers without his mask on. The fellow spoke to the tramp and told him if he opened his head he would lose it.

The tramp wisely kept still, but he noted that the robber who had issued the warning was about 5 feet 10 inches in height, and that he wore a black coat, woolen shirt and blue necktie.

Another Will of Senator Fair's is in Existence.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8 .- (Special Dispatch.) "James G. Fair made a will which no person connected with his estate has ever seen."

Such was the startling statement made today by one of the executors of the dead

Senator's estate. It is a statement that promises to carry new confusion into the legal camp of Charles Fair. Not the least embarrassing subject of consultation among the attorneys for Charles Fair has been the wills of Senator Fair, other than the one which was filed for probate and which the son proposes to contest. With Charles Fair it is an important consideration to know the con nts of these other wills. Executors and heirs, interested in main-taining the will on file, occupy a position of great advantage. They have in their possession or under their control other wills of Senator Fair, unless, perhaps, the one will referred to in the startling speech of the executor.

Charles Fair now occupies such a post-

tion that he scarcely knows which way to turn. He has before him only one will, to which he objects, and which he wishes set aside. Beyond that everything is in As to the contents of the wills in possession of the executors, something !s known. There was a well-founded story when Sen-ator Fair died of a holographic will by which he had made an equal division of his estate among his three children. But now comes one of the executors with the story of still another will. As to the contents or whereabouts of that will nothing is said. "It will all be known in time," said the executor, but further than that he would not go.

There is another matter of interest in their Fair estate to engage Judge Slack's attention tomorrow. It is the application of Warren & Malley for a partial payment on account of their contract for im-proving Fair's property at North Beach. The special administrators have evinced a desire to escape this confract which in volves the expenditure of at least $1,000,-000. The evasion means damage suits and interesting litigation as a side show to the will contest. Surely there are lively times ahead for the heirs of Fair. Already there twenty-six attorneys in case, with more to come.

BREACH OF PROMISE.

She Relates the Story of Her Wrongs and Claims Damages for Them in the Sum of Fifty Thousand Dollars.

sociated Press Leased-wire Service. SAN JOSE, March 8.—Marie Wilson, oung lady who resides with her mothe in Los Angeles, has commenced an action in this city against P. T. Burroughs, a traveling man, to recover $50,000 damage The story of her wrongs, as related by the young lady, is that Burroughs, who is a rather fine-looking man with an air of prosperity and gentility, visited the Southern city and made her acquaintance, and a mutual attachment sprang up. In April of last year he sued for and received her se of marriage. Soon after his busiess called him East, and for a wrote very loving letters to his promis bride. Presumably, however, some other fair charmer crossed his path, and his let-ters grew more frigid. At last he requested to be released from his promise of arriage. Marie did not want to seve the contract, but agreed to meet him in San Francisco to discuss matters. Here Burroughs secured a room and concealed witnesses therein. He then had a conference there with the young lady, and tried to have her make some propositio blackmail. Miss Wilson did not take the bait, and the meeting was fruitless. Burrougs's business called him about the hate, never stopping m three days in one town, and Marie stuck to his trail. About a week ago Burroughs gagement as auctioneer in a leading jew elry store. A few days later Marie her mother came to town, and yesterday, having despaired of the fickle lover re Wilson says she does not want the money she wants Burroughs. Burroughs claim she wants to blackmail him.

ATLANTA (Ga.,) March 8 .- The South ATLANTA (ge., ranged s.—Ine Southern Railway express which left Atlanta last night at 11 o'clock for Brunswick, ran into an open switch at Scotland this morning at 5:20 and was completely wrecked. The switch had been turned and nailed down by some unknown parties. Engineer Moore saw it, reversed the engine and applied the air break. The surpress struck applied the air breaks. The express struck a freight car on a siding, turned over two Pullman sleepers on their sides and tore up the track for 100 yards.

Mrs. C. H. Guber of Pickens, Miss., and baby were instantly killed. H. D. Hoffer and wife of Elyria, O., were slightly hurt Roland Reed and company were on board, bound for Jacksonville. Mr. Reed, Miss Isadore Rush and Mrs. Mary Michaels were injured, but not seriously.

It Found that Harry Hayward Incited Blixt to Kill Miss Ging.

Facts of the Murder, Which is Shown to be One of the Most Diabolical in All the Annals of Crime.

(The murder of Catherine Ging, a milliner of Minneapolis, occurred December 3, 1894. When her body was found a bullet wound was in the head and the skull had been fractured by some blunt instrument. Miss Ging had been known as an intimate friend of Harry Hayward, who has, as shown by the dispatches bewho has, as shown by the dispatches below, been found guity of inciting Blixt Suspicion also fell on one Blixt, janitor of a flat, who, on being coused confessed that he had killed Mis-Ging but said that Harry Hayward had made all the arrangements and forced made all the arrangements and forced him (Blixt) to carry them out. On this statement Harry Hayward was arrested and charged with the murder of Miss Ging. The trial has lasted seven weeks at Mineapolis and has resulted, as stated below in the jury returning a verdict finding Harry Hayward guilty as charged.)

ours I will be a free man.' Thus said Harry Hayward today, and in less than three hours a jury of his peers gave the lie to his words and placed its eal upon the word "guilty." With the same immovable stollidity with which he had watched the trial of his case, the prisoner received the verdict of the jury. There was not a shadow of a change in color, not the relaxation of single muscle, no visible collapse or sign of any emotion; ever the same cynical and sneering indifference. According to the statutes of the State of Minnesota only one fate can await Harry Hayward—to be hanged by the neck until he is dead. Neither the jury nor the judge could alter the sentence, no matter how strongly inclined they might be toward leniency. For murder in the first degree the law rovides only one penalty. Judge and jury alike are but the agents of the State for the execution of that law. At the request of counsel for the de ense the pronouncing of the sentence was deferred until next Monday morning, but the verdict of the jury has made the senence of Harry Hayward as certain as though the judge had already announced it.

JUDGE'S CHARGE. JUDGE'S CHARGE.

It took Judge Seagrave Smith forty minutes to read his charge to the jury.

He declared that the verdict must be guilty as charged, or not guilty. If the defendant was guilty the crime was pre meditated. The Judge intimated there could be no verdict of guilty than murder in the first degree. He explained the reasonable-doubt theory at great length. He continued: "To what extent the defense has dis-credited Blixt's testimony is for you, gentlemen, to say. They say his testimony was conflicting, and you have a right to take into consideration the con-dition of Blixt's mind that night. It is necessary for you to be satisfied that Blixt killed Miss Ging; second, that Hayward that Blixt killed the girl, you may pro-ceed; if not, do not consider the verdict further. But if Harry did incite, as charged, your verdict will be guilty.

"The State is not relying on circumstantial evidence, but has the testimony of Blixt that he killed Miss Ging, and the positive statement of Adry Hayward a few days before the murder that Harry said he was going to kill. This testimony is also supported, as it must be, by much circumstantial evidence. You must decide how far this evidence is worthy of credence and here the circumstantial evidence is must decide how far this evidence is worthy of credence and how far it is corroborative. The testimony of any accomplice must be accepted with extreme care." In judging of the credibility of these witnesses the jury is entitled to consider their attitude on the stand, and reasonableness of their statements and the condition under which they testified. If it was believed that any witness had testi-fled falsely it was at liberty to discard his ned tasery it was at liberty to discard his evidence, except wherein corroboration of other reliable sources established its credibility. If it was apparent that any witness was possessed of ill feeling against the accused, that also might be taken in consideration. If the jury found that any witness had given the testimony on a promise of impumity from unishment. promise of immunity from punishment that also must be carefully weighed.

This case was to be tried on the same principles precisely as any criminal case, no matter how slight its importance. The jury had nothing to do with the punish-ment to be inflicted. No attention was to be paid to the utterances of attorners on either side except as based on the tes-timony, but when the evidence was placed in the jury's hands it was the duty of the jury to decide, after weight carefully, whether it was sufficient to tain the charge against the defendant.

It was perfectly satisfactory to both sides, and no exceptions were noted. The rufing passion in Harry Hayward was strong in the presence of death. He placed a bet of $10 this morning that a verdict of acquittal would be reached inside of two hours.

The court adjourned until 2 o'clock. It is believed in the case of a verdict of "not guilty" there will be rioting. There is no way in which Hayward can be taken from the courtroom except through the crowd, and rumors of violence are heard.

THE VERDICT.

When Judge Smith arrived he issued strict orders to admit no one, and the injunction was religiously observed. Kobler, the County Clerk, asked in a tremulous jury unaffected by the intense gravity of the situation. "We have agreed," said McNeil in a voice "We have agreed," said McNeil in a voice that was scarcely audible, and a folded plece of paper that meant life or death to the accused was handed to the clerk.

Judge Smith looked over the document first and returned it to Clerk Kobler. "We, the jury, find the prisoner guilty," he read.

Every eye was turned toward the con-demned man. There was nothing in his face to indicate that he had heard a word of it. He threw his head back as the word "guilty" was pronounced, but it was only to adjust his collar. He did not change color by a single shade. Twice he coughed—that strange, hard, metallic cough that has been heard so often in the last few weeks. Then, looking around at the crowd, he raised his eyebrows inquir-ingly, as though to ask "What next?"

ingly, as though to ask "What next?"

During the polling of the jury he listened with evident interest to the answers though what they might say could signify nothing to him. The expression on his face was one of indignation rather than Judge Smith then thanked the jury for their labors in connection with the case. When the court announced that sentence would be deferred until Monday morning, Hayward was evidently pleased. He expressed the opinion while being removed pressed the opinion while being tenerical from the courtroom that the verdict was an outrage and that he was a long way from the hangman yet.

Albert Hall, the Assistant County Attornation of the coun ney, received the verdict in a manner that said as plainly as words: "I knew it."

When he arose to move an immediate sentence, Hayward half laughed and then glowered at the State's lawyer in an enraged manner. He feels a keen dislike for Hall on account of certain early in-dictments in the case, and has lost no opportunity to make this plain.

BACK TO JAIL. At 2:45 p.m. Hayward was taken down stairs and led back to jail under a strong police guard. In the belief that trouble might occur in the case of a verdict rating Hayward, a force of determine cers had been detailed to duty at the courtroom and vicinity. An ment toward him, and it is doubtful whether Harry Hayward would have regretted an opportunity to mix matters with some of the noisest. He was taken across the street on a trot, with the yelling multitude at his heels.

The officers massed around their prisonar determinedly, and there would have been serious trouble had any effort been made to attack him. The entrance to the jail was at last reached and a side dodge sent a dozen members of the crowd flying in different directions. Whatever the der nothing. Hayward was safely lodged in

In the courtroom after the jurers were discharged, dozens of friends crowded around the men, and there was an oldfashioned reunion. No restriction reto tell about the deliberations from the moment of retiring. It was learned that on the first vote taken, an unanimous ver-dict of guilty was reached. This vote was not taken until after dinner. There was not the shadow of dispute as to what the verdict should be. It took but a mo to clear the courtroom. After annothat sentence would be deferred Monday morning, Judge Smith left the their fees for seven weeks' service and then returned to the hotel. Samuel Dyer, whose illness came near compelling a new trial of the case, will not be taken home until tomorrow morning. During the last few days he has taken a turn for the

At the request of the attorneys for the defense, none of the prisoner's relatives were in the room when the verdict was read. Mr. and Mrs. Hayward, the pris oner's parents, were prostrated at the end of the morning session. All through the progress of the trial they have stood the strain well, but the nearness of the end was too much for them to contemend was too much to them to content-plate. Adry Hayward has not been in court for the last week. He has been at various places in the city, still in the company of a deputy sheriff, but he avoided the vicinity of the courtroom.

A JUST SENTENCE. For two hours after the verdict had been announced, a crowd remained dis-cussing the case on the sidewalks and about the courthouse and jail. The unan-imous opinion seemed to be that the verdict was a just one, and that truth had R is understood that the indisposition of Mr. Erwin is really serious. After the close of his address this morning, he collapsed, and for two hours was almost unable to see. Recovering to some extent, he at once left for St. Paul.

A messenger was in the courtroom with instructions to hurry to the Ozark as soon as a vardict was given. He left as soon as the ward "guilty" had fallen from the less of the clerk. Hayward made a motion as though he would intercept the boy, but to was not quick enough. In an incredibly short space of time, almost a matter of seconds after the result was amounted, a wild yell from the street told that it was already the property of the multitude. courtheuse were several hundred women and the feeling emeng them seemed to be felly as hostile as that of the men.

To illustrate the consummate nerve and neachalance of the accused, after he had been taken to the jail, following the retirement of the jury, he turned to one of the officers with the remark: "Let's play a game of cards on the result," to which the reply was made by one of the deputies, "I'll come in there and play, Harry, it you'll promise not to notice me." if you'll promise not to notice me. TROUBLE PREVENTED.

MINNEAPOLIS, March S.—The judge's order that no one be allowed to enter or eave the courtroom until Hayward was safe behind the bars was effective of pre-venting trouble. When word was brought back that the prisoner was safe the ver-dict was read. A poll of the jury was demanded and without hesitation cach man answered "gullty." Up to the time the verdict was read counsel for the defance expressed the greatest confidence in acquittal. Hall, Assistant County Attorncy, moved for an immediate sentence owing to the absence of Erwin the passing of sentence was postponed until Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

That Hayward anticipated what the verdict was to be seemed apparant in the angry manner with which he threw his hat on the attorneys' table, tearing the crown Shumaker besought him to keep cool, "Whatever the verdict, don't show any temper, Harry," he said. "This is not the

RECENT EARTHQUAKE.

PROVES TO BE A VERITABLE TERROR AT SEA.

Belief that it Produced a New Island or Annihilated One-Experience of the Schooner Volante

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8.-The recent earthquake which was reported as baving disturbed the inhabitants of Men-docino proved to be a veritable terror at sea, according to the stories told by the crews of the schooners Volante and C. T. Hill, which have just arrived from that ction of the coast.

The theory arrived at by the hydrographic officers, based upon the reports made by the skippers, is that the temblor was caused by some gigantic eruption at sea, and the probabilities are that news will arrive before long to the effect that some new island has sprung up in mid-ocean or that one has msteriously disappeared. The Volante was holding up to a stiff breeze about 502 miles off the Mendocinio scast, in the vicinity of Shelter Cove, when she encountered the shake-up. It took place a few minutes before 1 o'clock in the morning of March 1. The sea had been calm all right, but the breeeze kep well, and there was nothing to indicate that anything unusual was about to happen. The first warning of the earth-quake came in the form of a deafening roar which seemed to rise out of the sea. In an instant the ocean was lashed into a mass of foam, and in spots it rose in great geyser-like columns. The schooner stopped with a crash, just as if she had struck upon a rock and then shook like struck upon a rock, and then shook like an aspen for fully two minutes. Every timber and bolt groaned and creaked, and it was thought for a moment that she was going down. Those on deck were knocked down as though they had been shot.

DENVER, March S.—John A. Hamilton farmorly employed by the Southern Pacific at Oakland, committed suicide this morn-ing in his room at the American House, where he was stopping through the courtesy of an old friend whom he found in the clerk. His death was due to the black-list system inaugurated by the railway managers after the great strike of last aummer. A 25-cent piece was found in the clothing, and the only writing was the following on a leaf of a pocket pad: "J. A. Hamilton, C. E. Johnson, my own

Cal."

Among his effects was a letter from Trainmaster Perry of the Atlantic and Pacific, and also a bulletin issued by the same official notifying all men that they must not join the American Railway Union. Perry also wrote on December 23, saying that they had not reinstated any of the old men, and adding that there was no chance for Hamilton, and that his two old partners, McGrath and Richards, were working for the Southern Pacific at Oakland. Some letters addressed to Los Angeles were found in the trunk of the deceased.

WOMEN DEFEATED.

The Suffrage Bill is Killed in the Senate.

Senator Martin Thinks that Gov. Budd Should be Locked Up in a Cell.

Motion to Adjourn Sine Die Next Thursday—"Fossils" of the North vs. "One-Lungers" of the South.

By Telegraph to The Times.

SACRAMENTO, March 8.—(Special Dispatch.) The Woman Suffrage Bill received a black eye in the Senate today, the bill being defeated by 22 to 13. On recommendation a lengthy debate was held, covering much the same ground as that in the Assembly at the time of the passage of the bill. Senator McGowan delivered the most impressive of speeches. Though the bill was lost there still remains the constitutional amendment, which some constitutional amendment, which some profess to think will carry, and also one or two bills granting limited suffrage.

Gov. Budd's message relating to the Board of Charities, which was read in the Assembly last night, was read in the Senate today, and met a very cool reception. Senator Martin (Dem.) said it was a most asinine measure. He thought the Gov-ernor should be looked up in a cell.

The Senate has resolved to adjourn sine lie next Thursday, and it is believed the House will concur.

There was a lively incident in the Assembly today when Mr. Reid of Trinity cast a slur on Mr. Bulla's motives for Op-posing the appropriations for Northern California institutions. Mr. Bulla rose to a question of privilege and denied the al-legation and defied the allegator. His reference to "fossilized men of the moun-tains of the North" raised Mr. Read's ire. and he said he would rather be that than a "one-lunger" from the South, where every man with two lungs is compelled to leave the State.

The Governor has vetoed the Bulla bill removing the limitation as to the time of actions brought to recover money or other property deposited with any bank, banker, trust company, savings or loan society or other depository.

In the Assembly the County Government Bill passed the House by 54 to 0. The Mathews bill, appropriating $5000 for the purchase of furniture and apparatus for the Los Angeles Normal School also passed. The claims of the Los Angeles Voce del Popolo and Le Franco Califor nian for printing the constitutional amend ments were refused a second reading.

CALIFORNIA LEGISLATURE.

THIRTY-FIRST SESSION.

Associated Press Unacularity SESSION.

SACRAMENTO, March 8.—SENATE—
The question of the time the Legislature shall adjourn sine die was made a special order for Monday next. Mr. Martin of Placer urged an immediate adjournment. contending that legislation after the sixtieth day is illegal. Under suspension of constitutional provisions four bills were incredued, providing for the purpose for freedued, providing for the purpose for structional provisions four bills were in-troduced, provisions for the purchase for State institutions of supplies other than those produced by allen labor; by Mr. Earl, creating an additional court for Berkeley; by Mr. Voorhels, appropriating $20,000 for the Board of Horticulture, also $5000 for the improvement of the Yosemite.

When the Governor's message, advocating passing the Board of Charittes Bill was read, Mr. Orr moved to refer it to Senators Gesford, Seawell and Langford, all Democrats, in whose districts three the plundering institutions are located. Mr. Martin (Dem.) scored the Govern the plundering institutions are located Mr. Martin (Dem.) scored the Governor for sending in such message, and said the Governor should be confined in one of the asylums, whose management he decries. The battle for woman suffrage before the present Legislature has been fought and lost. After getting an enactment extending the right of elective franchise to women safely through the Assembly, it was killed today by an amendment by Mr. Gesford (Dem.) of Napa, inserting the word "male," and by thus specifying the sex of electors nullifying the bill so far as women voters are concerned.

When the bill came up for a third reading, Mr. McGowan (Rep.) of Humboldt championed its passage. A large number of women were in attendance, and standing room in the lobby was at a premium. After a few speeches Mr. Gesford's amendment was adopted by a vote of 22 yeas to against 13 nays. Mr. McGowan promptly moved to reconsider. He expressed surprise at the action of the Republicans, and urged them to return to the path of duty. In the name of Garfield, of Lincoln and other great party leaders, he asked wayward Republicans to return to the fold and obey the dictates of the party platform. In honor and conscience Senators were bound to vote for the pending bill and against to vote for the pending bill and against the dictates of the party platform. In honor and conscience Sonators were bound to vote for the pending bill and against the amendment.

Mr. Pedlar (Rep.) of Freso spoke for the bill, and Messrs. Gesford and McAllister (Dem.) of Marin against tt. Mr. Gesford called attention to the fact that Mr. McGowan, as chairman of the Judiciary Committee, had decided the bill to be unconstitutional. Mr. Gesford favored considering the matter by a constitutional amendment rather than by enactment. Mr. Gleaves (Rep.) of Shasta favored passing the bill and letting the Supreme Court settle its constitutionality. Mr. Earl (Rep.) of Alameda thought woman suffrage unwise, but said he would be bound by the dictates of his party so far as to vote for an amendment to the constitution, but he declined to vote for an unconstitutional bill. To do so he felt he would defeat the educational qualification demanded by popular vote at the last election.

Mr. Simpson (Rep.) of Passdena, Mr. Aram (Rep.) of Yolo and Mr. Withington (Rep.) of San Diego took the ground that no unconstitutional bill should have their vote. Mr. Martin (Dem.) of Placer made a humorous talk, in the course of which he said no married man would favor suffrage for women. He hoped the vexed question was so dead it would never hear Gabriel's horn. Mr. Mathews (Dem.) of Los Angeless made a vigorous speech against the bill, and then Mr. McGowan again took up the cudgels for the women in an eloquent speech.

The Senate refused to reconsider the amendment by the following vote:

Yeas—Messrs. Bert, Biggy, Earl, Ford, Frank, Gleaves, Hart, Holloway, Hort, Mahoney, McGowan, Orr, Pedlar, Seymour, Shine, Smith—16.

Nays—Messrs. Aram, Arms, Androus, Beard, Burke, Denison, Dunn, Fay, Flint, Gesford, Henderson, Langford, Linder, Marthm, Mathews, McAllister, Mitchell, Senwell, Shippee, Simpson, Toner, White-burst, Withington—33.

Excused—Mr. Voorheis, 1.

desk with elaborate horal ributes, in consideration of his championship of their cause.

Mr. Seawell's motion to reconsider the vote by which the bill fixing the hours of lebor in logging camps was defeated, was lost.

Mr. Langford's bill, amending the Penal Code, prohibiting able-bodied persons from banding together and gaining subsistence by alms, and directed against "industrial army" movements, was passed.

The Senate also passed Mr. McGowan's bill authorizing the formation of county mutual insurance companies; requiring foreign insurance companies to make a deposit with the State Treasurer and amending the public-school laws.

The consideration of the Governor's message favoring a State Board of Charities, was made a special order for Monday.

was adopted, fixing the National Guard appropriation at $200,000; Mendocino asylum, $145,000, and the Yosemite maintenance at $15,000.

Bills were passed compelling the San Francisco Harbor Commissioners to advertise for bids on all contracts of $500 or more; to pay the claim of $1300 to W. H. Murray; paying the claim of R. B. Young of Los Angeles for work on the Whittler School; appropriating $30,000 for a rock-crushing plant at the State prisons to furnish material for roads; creating a State bureau of highways and appropriating $31,000 therefor; repealing the banking act of 1893.

ASSEMBLY.—The County Government Bill passed without a dissenting vote and was ordered transmitted to the Senate immediately.

The report of the conference committee on the appropriation bill was adopted. It reduces the National Guard allowance from $25,000 to $200,000; reduces office rent of the Railroad Commission to $1200, reduces the allowance for the Mendecino Asylum from $180,000 to $145,000, makes a cut in the appropriation for the Napa Asylum, and cuts out $7000, special appropriation, for the San Jose Normal School. The bill appropriating $10,000 to continue the Commissioner of Public Works another year was reconsidered and passed.

Mr. Waymire called up a long-pending bill known as the Union League Bill, that provides for a roving commission to investigate corruption in all State institutions, and especially election frauds in San Francisco. He asked to have the bill made a special order for prompt consideration, and spoke at length on the popular demand for an investigating commission. A motion to suspend the rules was voted down by 24 nays, 27 yeas. This practically kills the bill.

The bill appropriating $250,000 for the erection of a San Francisco building for the university was passed.

An amendment drawn up in the interest of the San Joaquin Valley road, giving the San Francisco Harbor Commissionera, power to lease fifty acres of water-front iots on Mission Bay, was offered by Mr. Powers and adopted after a stirring debate in which a majority announced themselves as favoring a competing railroad.

The claims of French and Italian papers for publishing constitutional amendments were refused a second reading.

Bills were reported favorably by the committee of the whole appropriating $2500 for more land for the Preston School, and appropriating $23,007 to improve streets surrounding the Capitol grounds.

Bills were passed making Shasta and Modoc counties independent agricultural districts; appropriating $2000 for apparatus for the Los Angeles Normal School; deficiency appropriating $25,000 for repairs and improvements at Folsom; deficiency appropriation of $67,743 for the Southern California asylum; providing for the formation of protective districts for the improvement of streams not now navigable; creating a commission to promote uniformity of legislation in the United States; authorizing San Francisco Harbor Commissioners to pay $1250 to the Pacific Transfer Company for wharfage illegally collected.

The bill for the relief of insolvent debtors and the protection of creditors, which was refused passage yesterday, was reconsidered and passed.

The bill providing for endinf the term of office of the San Francisco Police Commissioners was called up and after a vigorous fight was laid on the table by a vote of 27 to 29 27 to 22.

Bills were passed giving the Board of Examiners more power to investigate all State institutions; paying the claim of Maj. Ramon Pico.

STOP-OVER PRIVILEGES. The Bill to Do Away with Them is Defeated. By Telegraph to The Times.

SACRAMENTO, March 8.—(Special Dispatch.) At the evening session the Lynch bill, No. 882, doing away with railroad stop-over privileges, was taken up and the fight made at the time of the second reading, was renewed. Friends of the bill attempted to rush it through, but Mr. Dodge insisted on putting in an amend-ment, and the majority of the House sided with him, and, amid great confusion, the ment, and the majority of the House sided with him, and, amid great confusion, the amendment reinserting the stop-over privilege was made, thus virtually defeating the bill. The deciding vote was 51 to 20, Messrs. Pendleton and Kenyon voting no. Mr. Laugenour kept rising to points of order and Mr. Dodge took him to task, saying, as was understood by Assemblymen near by: "Oh, sit down; don't let us have any more gag law."

Messrs. Laugenour and Pendleton demanded that Mr. Dodge's language be taken down. The attempt to knock out the enacting clause was defeated by 34 to 42 and the bill went to the printer.

Mr. Dodge says there are still some vicious features in the bill, but that the stop-over privileges offset them.

Gov. Budd has let one of Mr. Bulla's bills go to the Secretary of State's office without his approval. The bill permits the next of kin to draw sums to the extent of $500 from a commercial bank.

Purchasing Power of the Dollar Has Increased Four Fold While the Power to Pay Has Stood Stationary.

ssociated Press Leased-wire Service.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The majority of the special committee of the House, appointed to inquire into the causes of the prevailing agricultural depression, has prepared a report in which it says:

"It is unnecessary for the committee to enter into or dwell upon the fact that agriculture is depressed in every branch of this most important industry; that the values of land and farm surroundings, un-less under exceptionally rare conditions, have depreciated steadily as the purchas-ing power of the dollar has increased. But, while the values of the property owned have depreciated steadily as the purchas-ing power of the dollar has increased. But while the values of the property owned by the American farmers have decreased in thirty years from nearly one-half of the total wealth in 1860 to less than onethe total wealth in 1860 to less than one-fourth in 1890, of which 30 per cent. is now under mortgages, taxes have steadily increased and debts now require four times the labor to be paid than was then required. The purchasing capacity of the dollar to secure the farmers' land and his produce, has increased four-fold, while the power to pay his taxes and debts has remained at a standstill. "In 1873 wheat sold from $1.55 to $2.25 a bushel in New York; in 1894 it sold at 50 cents."

50 cents. Discussing the causes of the depression

the committee says:

"Class legislation of the worst character encumbers the statute books, and has been carried on to the detriment of aggiculture and its dependent industries for thirty years, culminating in the crime of the age in the demonetization of silver in 1872.

culture and its dependent industries for thirty years, oulminating in the orime of the age in the demonetization of silver was a bold stroke in the interest of capital that has reduced the value of every product in the world. This is conclusively proven by the fact that just as silver has depreciated, in like proportion have all other values falsen in the scale. Silver buillon today has the capacity to purchase as much wheat, cotton, pork, corn and lard, and every other commodity that it ever had; therefore the depreciation of the white metal simply means the depreciation of every article under the sun, with one single exception—the gold of Shylock.

The tariff system of taxation is not only unequal, but, as for the past thirty years administered in this country, is most unjust to the consumer. It has built up trusts, combines and gigantic corporations that have not only amassed immense weakh at the expense of the people, but who have assumed to counsel and direct legislation so as to perpetuate their power and gratify their greed. The tariff bears with undue weight upon the producer of agricultural staples, as it forces him not only to buy in the dearest market but to sell in open competition with the world's lowest prices. The agricultural deprecation is still further augmentate by the sale of futures on our stook exchanges, where the grain gamblers grow rich by farming the telegraph wires and selling wind, while the honest and industrious todiers on the praides reap the whirfwind. Food andulturations, add millions ammually to the farmer's losses and compel him to meet in competition the thief. To these might be added other causes, but the principal ones, to which agricultural depression and stagnation in trade is due, have been cited. "The remedy lies in remedial legislation, and until that is secured relief will not come permanently. To secure relief we suggest:

"First—That silver should be remonetized at the ratio of 18 to 1.

"Second—That so long as the present unjust and unequal system of protection con

BALTIMORE, March 8.—Capt. Glori gives his side of the existing trouble with Fitzsimmons in about the following words:

"Fitzsimmons and I realized before the company was organized that if he could force Champion Corbett to make a match with him that we would make money with which he was connected. When the time came for signing the articles of agreement and putting up the first take deposit of $2500, we had cleared $1500 with our show already, $750 of which, of with our show already, $750 of which, of course, was mine according to our partnership agreement. I then skirminished around and got a friend to advance us $1000, making the required sum for the first deposit. The show continued successful and there was not much trouble in gathering the second $2500. Meantime we reached St. Louis where Fitzsimmons was throwing away all the money he made in the most reckless fashion. He was spending from $60 to $90 a week for hotel bills alone. He bought a diamond ring costing $350 and clothes worth $650. To aggravate matters he had himself interviewed in several cities and stated that all the money on deposit with the stockholders for his match with Corbett was his sione. I spoke to him about this and his extravagance. Then it was that he turned on me and used epithets that I could not afford to notice.

"He wanted me to break the agreement with him. This I consented to do if he would retund me the $750 which I had in the original stake. I got the richest oursing I ever heard for my pains. For four months when he was without a cent I housed and fed him out of pure pity for his condition, and after I advanced him money to start out on the road again, he takes the earliest opportunity to throw me down. as now known, are: David Aldredge, Rome, N. Y.; J. M. Carter, Newport, Ky., clerk; Augustus Chauvot, New Orleans, barkeeper: James Miller, Cincinnati, colored porter, and an unknown young woman.

This is the death list, so far as known, from today's river disaster, in which the magnificent New Orleans steamer Longfellow was crushed on a bridge pier and sunk in less than five minutes. Unfortunately, the complete list may never be known. All the records of the steamer were lost with it, and no passenger list is ever left ashore. For hours there were rumors of the loss of an invalid young woman from New York, accompanied by a famale physician, but the constant assertion of the officers of the steamer that all the passengers were rescued, except Mr. Aldredge, and the statement of passengers that there was no panie or wild rushing for safety led to the hope that the rumor was groundless.

Later in the afternoon, in a portion of the wreckage that had been landed some distance below the city, the body of a young woman was found. She was wearing a satin nightness, and a black skirt was about her form as if she had been in the act of dressing. A small satchel was in her hand, but it contained nothing to identify her. It was daylight, the fog had disappeared. The great steamer, fearful of the peril of passing the bridge piers, had been given the assistance of the powerful towboat Hercules Carroll. When almost upon the pier the pilot found himself confronted with an alarming condition. The powerful cross currents which no human foresight could have located, caught the lower chimneys which had been let down to allow the boat to pass under the bridges, wholly obscured the vision.

The Herucules Carroll's pilot, being located almost behind the great steamer, was also unable to see the boat's position, and more likely it was not strong ehough to turn fits course against the treacherous current.

And so the fated Longfellow was carried like a helpless thing against the pier and crushed into a wreck. So quick was the work of de

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8.—Out of the 1000 new men which Congress has added to the complement of the navy the Marion and Boston now at Mare Island, will be equipped. The Marion has been prepared for see, and only awaits a crew, which requires about 150 men, and the cruiser Boston double that number. This will necessitate the immediate ealistment here of about 400 men, for which purpose a recruiting office may be established tomporarily in this city, though the number required could be enlisted at Vallejo on board the receiving ship Independence. The physical requirements are so severe that generally out of a hundred applicants not more than ten are accepted. Consequently the work of shipping the new sailors will necessarily be slow. other convicts in the coal mines, he is placed on a stint of 1600 pounds of coal as a day's work.

He complains that the hard work down in the bowels of the earth does not agree with him, and that he is physically unfitted for such a laborious occupation, as his employment for years has been such as was not calculated to develop his muscles. However, he hopes soon to be placed at work more congenial to him, and that by good behavior he may cut down his sentence of three years at hard labor to two years and a half. He entertains hopes also that he may obtain a pardon from the Governor, as he claims that he has influential friends who will make every effort to have him released.

Judge W. A. Randolph, who sentenced him, has written a letter to the officials at the penitentiary in which he recommends that Trusdell be given lighter work of a clerical order if possible.

Another letter has been received here from Sheriff O. F. Austin of Syracuse, NY. inquiring as to the sentence given Frank H. meether legally against the non-board companies.

Meetings are held delly and charges are pilling in upon the Executive Committee, alleging breach of faith, breach of contract sules and sharp practice generally. The old trouble is breaking out again, and not satisfied with going after the business of companies outside the compact, certain of the members are knifing one another. It is growing daily more difficult to hold the men together, and the trouble between the Sun of San Francisco and the German American, both board companies, is now making serious inroads into the harmony of the board.

At least one member of the board agrees with the outsiders that the new compact is likely to go to pieces very soon.

Perhaps the strongest indication of the present dissatisfaction among the board companies is the attitude of the English concerns. They are not happy by any means, and a movement is under consideration for them to move out of the compact in a body and form an offensive and defensive organization of their own. There are about twenty-one, of the English companies represented in this city, so that they form about half the number of companies now in the Board of Fire Underwriters.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8.—The Market-street Railway Company has met with a new obstacle in its effort to establish the validity of the consolidated corporation's recent issue of $17,000,000 in bonds. George Whitell still insists that the bonds were illegally issued and has requested an apportunity to demonstrate that fact in the Supreme Court.

As a stockholder in the Central Railway Company Whitell was bitterly opposed to the consolidation of the street railroads and refused to surrender his stock for the stock of the combine. He has attacked the legality of the consolidation in the courts and now wishes to establish the illegality of the bonds.

Intending purchasers of $4,000,000 of the bonds refused to carry out their contract, after being furnished with a legal opinion that the bonds are not legal. To overcome this opinion the railway combine some months ago brought suit against L. W. Hellman, A. The suit was designed to accomplish the further purpose of having the bonds declared legal by judicial decree.

MATRIMONIAL FOLLIES.

Story in Connection with Grace Benjamin's Death.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8.—(Special Dispatch.) The story of a young San Tranciscan's matrimonial folly has been evealed by the curious death of a woman

Las Friday Grace Benjamin, a seven een-year-old girl of good family, was ound asphyxlated in the bathroom of Sam deper's bathelor apartments, on Sutter theet. She had been taking a bath and her death was due to a peculiar gas ma-chine used for heating water. It filled the air with gas and smothered the girl. The case created a local sensation, but Meyer stoutly denied that he had sus-tained any but platonic relations with the SAN FRANCISCO, March 8.—Lizzie Mayo, the first feminine messenger in the United States, is in custody in this city charged with vagrancy. She and some other girls, still in their teens, were taken from a cheap lodging-house in this city to day, having no visible means of support. She began her career as a telegraph messenger in San Jose, being in the employ of the Western Union Company, but San Jose became too dull for her and she drifted to this city, and has been living a gay life ever since her arrival.

The couple returned, but about three years ago old Meyer again induced the woman to leave, this time for her old home in Chicago, where in 1893 she got a divorce from Sam for desertion. When the divorce decree was filed old Meyer paid her $10,000. Pearl Wood is now said to be in Chicago with her ten-year-old daughter.

DiVonne, daughter of the wife of the late Col. Audenreil, will be remembered. She fied from her husband in France because she refused to go to his country estate and he invoked French law to aid him.
She went to New York today and will tomorrow sail for France to join her husband.

The young woman returns with an allowance of $500 a year, providing she keeps the broad Atlantic betygen her and America. To intimate friends the Countess blames her mother for having reared her in extravagance and allowed her to have her own way. Intimate friends who are familiar with the circumstances remember younthful Florence as a headstrong girl, who was beyond parental control before she was out of short dresses.

The Countess, in her talk, gave a lively account of the way physicians tortured her when she lay sick in order to prove she was insane and should be placed in an asylum. She said they ran pins and needles into her to try to provoke her into hysteria. She says she will be glad never to see the mother whom she blames for all her trouble.

Big Land Suit.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8.—One of the biggest land suits ever filed in this State is being prepared by W. S. Barnes, the local District Attorney, and will be filed in Fresno county. It involves land in Kern, Tulare, Fresno, Merced, Mariposa and Santa Clara counties and much city property in the heart of the county seat of Tulare county. The suit concerns the estate of Samuel Simon, who died March 3, 1885.

Speaker Peel to Resign.

LONDON, March 9.—The Times this morning anounces that Speaker Peel will in a few days resign. Mr. Peel will cease his occupancy of the chair as soon as his successor is elected. The Standard says it is believed that Lord Rosebery will be obliged to take a long rest from political life, his strength having been greatly reduced by his recent indisposition.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8.—In the Superior Court this morning John Whan, an eighteen-pear-old crimmial, was sentenced by Judge Wallace to forty years in the pententiary on two charges of highway robbery. John Smith, Wilson's accomplice, pleaded guilty on one charge and was sentenced to twenty years. Before they could be taken out of the courtnoom Smith cursed and abused Judge Wallace in the vilest language and finally attacked Policeman Ryan, who arrested him, giving Ryan a bloody nose and knocking him to the floor. Another charge of robbery is pending against Smith, who is also a mere youth.

"TRAVELER FOR HELL." The Miners Give Him a Ride on

TACOMA (Wash.) Murch 8.—A special from Index says: H. J. Jacobs, an stinerant minister, arrived here last night and announced that he was a "traveler from hell," sent to purify the town. He took charge of the courchouse, and began an address in a loud voice on immorality and gambling, and declared that Christianity was doing more harm than good. This was disputed by the miners and the "traveler from hell" left town on a rail.

ENGINEER NUFFER

WHO WAS IN THE BIG MEXICAN

He Tells the Story of How the Accident' Occurred and How Some Threatened to Kill Him on the Spot.

Associated Press Leased-wire Service.

LAREDO '(Tex.,) March 8. — Engineer John Nuffer, the American who is held responsible by many in Mexico for the terrible wreck on the Interoceanic railway February 28 last, is in this city, and gave the following story of the accident:

He was pulling the first section of an excursion train which was returning to Mexico City. There were fifteen coaches in the train. At Tenango he stopped to take on wood, which was at 11:46 o'clock. He was crowded out by the second section, and the accident occurred at 12:05 o'clock, twenty minutes after he had left Tenango, in which time he had run only seven kilometres. This, if true, proves that the train was not running at a high rate of metres. This, if true, proves that the train was not running at a high rate of speed, as has been charged. At the point of a curve the fourth coach left the track, having broken an axis. This set the automatic brakes, and the engine and first three coaches could not go further than twenty feet. The third coach, behind the three coaches could not go further than twenty feet. The third coach, behind the one which left the track, was what is known as an English ironclad, the framework being of steel, and the sides of iron. This coach plowed through the two coaches in front of it and caused the havoe which cost many passengers their lives. The passengers in this coach all escaped.

"As soon as the accident occurred," said Nuffer, "I went to the rescue of the sufferers, and while engaged in doing all I could to relieve their suffering was warned that I had better get away from the scene as some of the men threatened to kill me because they had lost relatives in the wreck. I was fired upon and slightly wounted in the hig. I immediately left the scene and escaped to the City of Mexico, from whence I came to the United States. Had I not been a Mason I never could have gotten out of the country. I am in receipt of a telegram from Mr. Jackson, president of the Interoceanic, to the effect that they do not hold me responsible for the accident. Mr. Sullivan, superintendent of the line, was on the engine with me when the accident occurred. To my knowledge there are no charges pending against me in Mexico."

FRUIT-GROWERS.

THIRD VICE-PRESIDENT STUBBS GIVES THEM ADVICE.

Disclaims that the Southern Pa tific Company is Any Way Responsible for Their Hard Times.

SAN FRANCISCO arch 8.—J. C. Stubbs, third vice president of the Southern Pacific, has addressed a lengthy comnunication to Frank H. Buck and others on Transportation, appointed in the recent onvention of fruit-growers.

Mr. Stubbs thinks the publication of the statements made by the committee was unwise, and more calculated to retard than advance the prosperity of the fruit-growers, the transportation interests and the State. Mr. Stubbs takes issue with the nittee, stating that it alleged as normal the extraordinary conditions of 1893 and 1894, when every industry was normal the extraordinary conditions of 1883 and 1894, when every industry was depressed and when there was little fruit consumed because people could not afford to purchase it. Using figures furnished by the committee as a basis, Mr. Stubbs computes the net profit to the California fruit-grower at $27.85 per acre and asks what producer in any State, or merchant, 'manufacturer or railroad company within the State made such a return on capital invested during 1894. Mr. Stubbs wishes the acreage profit had been also per acre net, and if it had been, he says charges for the transportation of fruit east would not be increased. He enters a general disclaimer to the charge that the railroad company has been responsible in any manner for the hard times which the fruit-growers have experienced. Referring to the committee's statement that there has been no reduction in the freight charges on green fruit for several weeks he admits this, but states there has been a very great increase in the amount and cost of service performed by the railroad companies without any adequate increase in the charge. He says that the rate of $1.25 per 100 pounds to Chicago averaged 1 cent per ton per mile, which is less than the current rate says that the rate of $1.25 per 100 pounds to Chicago averaged 1 cent per ton per mile, which is less than the current rate charged for carrying the fruit products of Florida and the Southern States to Chicago, although the latter route is over level roads, cheaply operated, while the California fruit is taken across five mountain ranges, the line having no local business and the operating expenses high. Coming directly to the statement of the desires of the committee and the conclusions of the company thereon, Mr. Stubbs desires of the committee and the concusions of the company thereon, Mr. Stubbs cays:

"First—The Southern Pacific will undertake negotiations with its connections to establish a five-day schedule for ventilated cars in train loads, and seek to insure the prompt and regular dispatch of fruit from all points on its line.

"Second—The Southern Pacific Company is not responsible for the refrigerator charges of refrigerator companies, and declines to assume any responsibility in that direction. This is a matter which fruit-growers and shippers must handle for themselves directly with the refrigerator companies.

themselves directly with the refrigerator companies.

"Third—The request for a $1 rate to Chicago in ventilated cars for an eight-day service of not favorably considered previous experience with an eight-day service for ventilated cars proving unsatisfactory. Excessive dead weight as compared with paying loads of refrigerator cars will, if possible, be reduced.

"Fourth—Carload lots of fruit for Eastern shipment cannot be basied to points."

ern shipment cannot be hauled to points on the main line from branch line points on the basis of through act. ocal rates.
"Fifth—Not more than ten tons of cher or dried and canned fruits and nuts be accepted, each variety paying its own rate, is denied.

"Seventh—The request for an emergency rate of 75 cents on the raisin crop of 1895 because of "the woeful depression" of the raisin industry is refused. Rates on raisins have been reduced 29 per cent. within the last two years. The depression in the raisin industry is not caused by or incidental to the transportation above. raisin industry is not caused by or incliental to the transportation charge, but so due to the unreasonable competition among our own producers."

THE CORONA'S ACCIDENT.

Passengers Say the Collision Was not as Severe as Reported. as Severe as Reported.

J. L. Ford and E. Tompkins, who were bassengers on the steamer Corona on its latest trip from San Francisco and were eve-witnesses of the accident at Santa Monica wharf Wednesday, called at the Times office yesterday to say that all reports that have been printed of the incident were exaggerations. Mr. Ford says it was his wife who was referred to as standing beside the captain and wearing the master's cap as the boat neared the wharf. He says that the cap Mrs. Ford wore at master's cap as the boat neared the wharf. He says that the cap Mrs. Ford wore at the time was her own, and that she was standing beside her husband and Mr. Tompkins on the hurricane deck near the bridge at the time of the collision. After stating thus in personal explanation, Mr. Ford said that the damage done the boat and wharf by the bump was overstated: that the portion of the boat's rail that was disturbed hit the section at the gate and that was merely pulled from its place. Both men say that the boat came in at a reduced speed, was slightly listed by reason of a portion of the cargo having been removed at the last landing, and at a critical moment a swell sent the vessel against the wharf. They say that the shock was not severe enough to throw them off their feet. They both declared that the captain of the ship was not at fault in the matter, but that remains to be determined at an investigation promised to come off in San Francisco. e determined at an investigation pro sed to come off in San Francisco.

THE MYSTERY CLEARED.

THE OWNER OF THAT AMPU-

TATED LEG IS FOUND. She is Alive and Doing Well-Some Other Ground Will be Found Necessary to Charge Hoffman with Murder.

There is now no doubt that the owner of the leg which was found the other day in a rubbish barrel in the rear of a house on Broadway, has been located, is alive and doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances. The facts are that a few months ago a woman, suffering with a disease of the bone of one leg, was forced to submit to amputation of the member. When the leg was taken off the severed portion was wrapped up and thrown in a rubbish barrel by some one who expected the relic to go in due course of time to the garbage crematory. How discovery is the only mystery that yet clings to the unpleasant subject.

A few weeks ago it was found that the amputation had not been performed properly to enable the woman to use a patent leg, and she went to Pasadena to undergo another operation. In a private house two surgeons of that city cut off another section of the same leg, making so successful an operation that the patient is now doing well.

The name of the patient, as well as of the Los Angeles surgeons, is withheld for the present, but there is no further mystery about that leg.

HOFFMANN AND HIS SPOUSE.

for the present, but there is no further mystery about that leg.

HOFFMANN AND HIS SPOUSE.
Phil Hoffmann the Temple-street butcher, feels somewhat worked up over the story printed "exclusively" in an evening paper intimating that he had murdered his wife and chopped her up. The only foundation for the story was that Mrs. Hoffmann rap away from her hubby several months ago, a fact that was duly chronicled at the time, and that a few days ago a section of a woman's leg was found in a rubbish heap in the rear of a house on Broadway. Hoffmann's mother-in-law, reading of the discovery of the leg, though it was where, possibly, no relative of hers had ever been, fancied that the segregated portion of anatomy belonged to her daughter, and that, consequently, a murder had been committed. These points were sufficient to warrant a reporter of the evening paper in writing an awful story gravely, charging Hoffmann with murder.

Hoffmann did not know anything about the story until this morning, and then he became wrathy. As a matter of fact, according to his own statement, corroborated by others, including Chief of Police Glass, he has been looking for his wife for some time past to serve upon her some papers bearing on a suit for divorce, but the willy woman who, according to all accounts is quite bright in her way, has eluded service. She is probably not far away, although by a letter written by her and sent to Brooklyn, N. Y., to be mailed, she sought to convey the impression that she had gone to that city. That letter was mailed at Brooklyn on the 18th of lest month.

Hoffman, while apparently not at all nervous about the prospects of a charge of murder being brought against him, is yet averse to having such stories told about him, although he is not of a timed, shrinking disposition. Almost any man would object to being charged with having chopped up his own wife, and Hoffman feels all cut up about it. There was not any love lost between the couple, as the neighbors all knew, and when the wife skipped cut the only interest the husband feit in the matter was to reach her with divorce papers referring in pointed terms to her chastity.

Hoffman says that there are two men in this city who know the whereabouts of his wife, but they will not tell. He does not think it quite fair that his mother-in-law should talk so about him after he has contributed so generously to her support. He does not know where his fickle wife is, but he will pay a reward for information as to her whereabouts.

FOR EXCHANGE

The EARTH!"

Likewise exchange occasionally to keep things stirred up. You know in this country the best orchards are those that are cultivated often. The same principle works well with the earth in general. Keep it stirred up for best results. Now I have four as fine pieces of property as there are in Pomona Valley that can be exchanged, at least partially, for Los Angeles property, as follows:

30 acres, 2½ miles trom center of Pomona, set to clives, peaches, apricots and prunes; well, windmill and tank price only $150 per acre; this is cheap at $250 per acre.

20 acres only 1 mile from the conter of town, just at the end of Second st. (our business street); about 10 acres olives, mostly 15-year-old trees; about 10 acres french prunes, about 6 acres 9 years old, balance 4 years old; prices $10,500; about 9½ acres all set to oranges and prunes, excepting about 1 acre general variety fruits, most every kind in the catalogue; good new house 8 of 9 rooms, pantry, bath, garret and content across; one of the best places in the valley; no better water-right in the State; good 1 rigating water in cement pipes, and domestic water from artesian wells in iron pressure pipes; both water-rights deeded with the place; this property and surroundings are good enough for the most fastidious.

If it don't suit you-well, you must be "blooded" for this country; 2½ acres, 2 miles north of Fomona, near North Pomona, on motor line which connects the depots of the Santa Fe at North Pomona and the Southern Pacific at Pomona; set to oranges and other fruits; street row of olives, lemons and paims; at fine house 9 rooms, pantry, bat; beautiful, large lawns; price $4500.

Now the above property has not been in the market for trade and the prices are the cash values that I have been offering them for, so you will simply waste your own time and mine if you go to putting all you mean business; or, octer's till, come part he cash values on easy payments, in 4-room cottage on , ferson st., 4 block from electric line, horse and slight wagon and cash. Addr EQUITY, Times office. FOR EXCHANGE—OVER 2000 RANCHESS of every description; over 200 houses and lots; vacant lots, etc.; list your property. Apply to BEN WHITE, 221 W. First st.

BUSINESS

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

OFFICE OF THE TIMES,
LOS ANGELES, March 8, 1895.
The Times has commented several times on the difficulty which is experienced by owners of country property in obtaining loans. The Los Angeles savings banks comfine their loans almost entirely to inside business property, which they can keep close under their eyes. When occasionally they can be persuaded to make a loan on country land, the owner has to pay about 2 per cent. more for the privilege. The drawback of this system is fully recognized by financial men, but it is not easy to see how it can be changed. The banks themselves cannot deny that it is a short-sighted policy not to lend money on good country property, from the product of which the city draws its support, but none of them appear to desire to take the lead in making a new departure. Some of the banks claim that when it comes to an investigation too many of the country places in this section do not pay their owners. This may be true of places where to an investigation too many of the country places in this section do not pay their owners. This may be true of places where a man buys a small plece of land and goes in for fancy farming, keeping up an expensive establishment, hiring all his work done, and driving around in a smart buggy. It cannot be expected that such farming as this should leave a margin on the profit side of the account, even in Southern California where the soll is so productive and nature so kind. It is, however, absurd to say that farming as a rule does not pay in this section, because the main support of Los Angeles and other cities, after making allowances for all the money that is brought in by new-comers, consists in the productions of the soil. Why, the orange crop alone of Southern California this season will amount in value to little less than $5,000,000, while other products, such as barrley and corn and wheat and hay and almonds and olives and peaches and aprinces and prunes and walnuts and berries and vegetables and honey and wool and hides end petroleum and beet sugar and building stone and other products too numerous to mention would certainly swell the total to as much more. Now, the question is, if the money-lenders continue to shut down on the pessible who own the land that produces this wealth, how long are we going to be able to keep up these big brick blocks in the city which capitalists are pleased to regard as such first-class, gilt-edge, inside business property," while they turn up their noses at the land which produces the crops that made these blocks a possibility?

In future numbers The Times, will have more to say in regard to possible methods of securing outside capital to loan in this section.

COMMERCIAL.

The reduction of 10 cents a box in the price of seedling oranges has had the effect of stimulating the demand for this fruit in the East, and orders are coming in quite freely. There is little probability that it will be necessary to make any further reductions in price, but, on the contrary, as stated yesterday, it may be that before the end of the season a slight advance will be found advisable, at least in the case of choice fruit.

The San Bernardino correspondent of The Times sends the following interesting and had a long talk with him. He is waiting spring developments, and it not certain what to do, but has ordered 10,000 bud woods which he intends to bud on the trees.

Mr. Drew investigating the marketing of fruit in the New Orleans and Montgomery, Ala., wholesale markets and is convinced that the fruit-growers of Southern California should organize and systematically teach the public points in relation to California need not fear the competition of Florida if that section escapes the frost hereafter. California fruit is better. There are still some Florida oranges on the market—some that were picked before the December freeze. It does not compare with our fruit. Mr. Drew, when he found choice California oranges, made a purchase and instituted comparison. The trouble is that dealers and the public do not know how to discriminate in relation to California fruit. They know that the Indian River country produces the finest fruit grown in Florida, and they command the top of the market. With California oranges they are all the same, navels, seedings and even frozen oranges. They known nothing about navel oranges as 4, special variety of fruit, but call public in a variety of fruit, but call public in a readier sale that produce choice fruit except Riverside. They know nothing about navel oranges as 4, special variety of fruit, but call public find a readier sale than the cream of footbill groves. The buyer does not know what to ask for except California oranges, and the peddler wants the largest number he can sell for the least money.

Mr. Drew thinks that the proper thing to be done is for orange-growers of Southern California to form a strong organization, arrange to have the fruit closely graded and properly labeled so that the mark on the box shall be an absolute guarantee of the quality of the fruit of every grade, and then send agents to but this fruit on the market and educate the public so that it will be impossible for unscruplious dealers and shippers to deceive buyers with California oranges. The associa ricties of oranges and tell a navel from a seedling, etc. They will also be able to tell whether an orange comes from the Northern Citrus Belt or from the choice groves of Highlands, Redlands, Riverside and other localities in Southern California, where this fruit attains the highest perfection.

Articles of incorporation were filed yea-terday of the Overland Fruit Dispatch. The object is to lease and operate refrig-erator cars in the interest of the Southern California Fruit Exchange, by which means a considerable saving may be effected during the season. Already 400 cars have been secured. The capital stock is $100,000, of which $50,000 has been sub-scribed. The directors are: A. H. Nartz-ger, George H. Stewart, George W. Mc-Clune, Charles H. Berry and A. C. Way.

A few days ago there was published in this column an interesting table showing the sources of California's coal supply. In this table it was shown what a very small proportion of the supply comes from that portion of the Pacific Coast within the United States, while the supply from California is infinitesimal, being confined to that which is mined at the Mt. Diablo mines in Contra Costa county. It is now stated in San Francisco that extensive coal fields are about to be opened up in Alameda county, not very far from the Mt. Diablo mines, from which the proprietors think they can land coal in San Francisco for $1.50 per ton and supply it to the manufacturers at from $3 to $4. It is not necessary to say how important this news is, provided it is true. Coal at such a price would greatly stimulate the manufacturing industry.

The company referred to is known as the San Francisco and San Joaquin Coal Company, which has just been incorporated and back of which stand some of the wealthest men in the State. The incorporators are: Col. J. D. Fry, president of the California Savings and Trust Company; Jacob C. Johnson of the wholesale saddlery firm of J. C. Johnson & Co.; John W. Coleman of Oakland; Henry Williams, Brown & Co. The corporation has a capital stock of $5,000,000 divided into 50,000 shares.

The coal fields owned and controlled by the company are situated in Corral Hollow, eight miles east of Livermore and cover a territory six miles long by a mile and a half wide. More than three-quarters of a million dollars has been spent in develouing the property, and the experts say that there are between twenty-five and one hundred millions of tons of coal already in sight. The main tunnel, which extends 3000 feet into the hillside, crosses seven distinct veins of high-grade coal. In, one a "stope" has been run for 400 feet and in another, measuring ten and a half feet, a "raise" extends 550 feet to the surface of the ground.

It is proposed to handle the coal by the improved machinery now in use in the East. A standa

The San Bernardino correspondent of The Times sends the following interest of the state of the same of the following interest of the state of the same of the state of the sta burgh is a surprising feature. The continuance of the movement of merchandise is at about low ebb during February, as indicated by the gross earnings of fifty-six of the large railway companies for that month, which were reported to Bradstreet's aggregate $21,673,000 (about 70 per cent. of the total.) a decrease of 1.5 per cent. from the earnings for the like period last year, when the falling-off as compared with February, 1893, was 1.2 per cent. The regular monthly report of wheat stocks in the United States and Canada for February shows a decrease of 9,489,000 bushels, three times the falling-off in February of last year, while the January and February decrease was 16,456,000 bushels four times the falling-off in the like period of 1894. The February decrease here, in Europe and afloat for Europe, was 10,000,000 bushels, as contrasted with an increase of about 100,000 bushels each in February one and two years ago. If like exceptional decreases are to follow during the remaining months of the year the effect on the visible supply and on prices will be marked. Exports of wheat this week have increased sharply, aggregating 3,272,000 bushels, as against 2,689,000 bushels last week. 2,551,000 bushels in the week a year ago, about the same quantity in the week two years ago and as compared with 3,354,000 bushels in the first week of March, 1892.

A reported slightly weaker tone to the Paris market had more influence during the forenoon than some other cablegrams which were of a decidedly builish character. A report of some wholesale trade in wheat for shipment at Toledo was in a similar manner minimized by the statement that it was worked because of a heavy cut in railroad rates. Closing cables confirmed the advance at Liverpool of from \(\frac{1}{2}\)\pi\ dy per bushel. AN OBJECT LESSON.

The Old World offers to the new in many directions interesting object lessons which it would be well for the citizens of our large municipalities to thoughtfully consider.

While electric railways are multiplying, and we appreciate them fully a means of rapid transit, the object tions to them, under the old systems, still continue to be urged, and anything that offers us freedom from their objectionable features, while giving us an equally valuable service, cannot fail to meet with popular favor.

The current number of the Review of Reviews contains an exceedingly interesting article on "The Electric Street Railways of Budapest" in which the writer says:

"The Electric Street Railway Company of Budapest, Hungary, opened its first line five years ago. It has steadily increased the number and extent of its lines, and is operating them today with what is locally considered to be a very high degree of success. When the Brooklyn horse-car system was permitted to change its motive power to electricity, the chief objec-tions that were urged were directed against the use of the overhead trolley wires which required the erection of poles in the streets and the suspension of a network of highly-charged wires, under circumstances which might prove in many ways to be both inconvenient and dangerous. But it was stoutly declared that no other electric system except the overhead trolley could be made to work, and the desire for more efficient transit carried the

"Meanwhile, far down the valley of the Danube, the municipal authorities of Budapest, a place with half a mill-ion inhabitants, had absolutely refused to perinit trolley-wires in the hand-some and orderly streets of their pro-gressive city; and the directors of the Budapest Electric Street Railway Company, desiring a franchise for the new boulevards, cheerfully undertook to dispense with all overhead struc-tures. They also promised not to em-ploy the system—which had been ex-perimentally tried at Beelin—by which Meanwhile, far down the valley of perimentally tried at Berlin—by which the rails themselves are charged with an electrical current. Furthermore, they agreed not to make use of a third rail carrying the electrical current, this system having been considered objectionable. What they did agree to do was to place a conduit under one of was to place a conduit under one of the rails, carrying in that conduit an insulated wire or metallic strip which should convey the electrical power (to-gether with a second one for the re-turn current,) and to make the connec-tion with the motor or secondary dy-namo of the street car through a slot in the groove of one of the rails. "In short, the proposed system was a highly improved underground trol-ley, with the live wire or metallic strips so placed as to be neither visible nor tangible, and insulated in such a way that the surface rails could never way that the surface rails could never be dangerously charged, while tele-graph and telephone lines should suf-fer nothing from induction. It is suffi-cient to say that it has stood the test of five winters and five summers with perfect success. Nor is there any rea-son whatsoever to believe that it would not be quite as successful in Brooklyn or in any American city as in Budaable crimes of Tammany, which were

The objection to this Budapest sys tem on the part of our electric companies is the greater cost which at the outset is incurred in laying the wires underground, but it is claimed that the In taking this action the Democratic quent expense is less than that where overhead wires are used, the danger of accident is lessened, and the necessity for erecting the unsightly poles is all done away with.

Americans are not as considerate in regard to the beauty of their streets as are the denizens of many Old World cities. Street railway companies have sued in vain for franchises which would permit them to extend their electric lines along some of the finest avenues in European cities. Along the Andrassy street of Buda-pest, which is claimed by many critics to be the finest avenue in all Europe street railway has been permitte to lay its tracks, but with the introduc tion of this new system of underment of the obnoxious and unsightly poles the matter is now being considlaid claim to any great amount of credit on account of the record of their party on the financial question.

The Times is in receipt of a very piteous appeal for aid on behalf of the people of Western Nebraska, signed "Mrs. J. Hewett Broaddus, Ewing, local agent for State Relief Commission." It is requested that supplies be forwarded to the above address. Unfortunately the letter is unaccompanied by any proof that the writer is officially authorized to make the appeal or to receive supplies. The cause s most worthy, and appeals strongly to the sympathies of the charitable. But if Mrs. Broaddus is the authorized agent of the State Relief Commission the latter has made a great mistake in not furnishing her with means of identification and of verification of er authority. So many fraudulent schemes are worked upon charitablyinclined people that honest applicants for aid should not neglect to furnish full evidence of their reliability. this beautiful thoroughfare without in

The majority of the House Special Committee, appointed to inquire into the causes of agricultural depression, has submitted a report which is about as demogagic a document as Democratic ingenuity could devise. It attributes the agricultural depression chiefly to Republican legislation, but neglects to state that although Democratic party has been in full control of both the executive and the leg slative branches of the government for over two years, it has done almost nothing to relieve the conditions complained of, while the little that it has done has made matters worse. This report is the last expiring wail of a moribund, degraced and disgraceful Democratic Congress, and will excite only derision and pity.

A verdict of "guilty as charged" was reached in the Hayward trial at Minneapolis yesterday, after a brief deliberation by the jury. This verdict, so far as can be judged from the evidence as reported by the telegraph, from day to day, is a just one. The cool bravado of Hayward is illustrated by the fact that he made a wager yesterday morning that a verdict of acquittal would be rendered within two hours after the retirement of the jury. The verdict was reached within the time specified, or thereabouts; but Harry lost his wager.

The Senate yesterday adopted a joint resolution, in which it is believed the House will concur, providing for an adjournment sine die next Thursday. There will be no particular objection from any source. The pending appropriation bills can be disposed of by that time and there are few, if any, other measures pending which it would not be better to allow to die on the calendar than to pass. "Praise God from whom all blessings flow."

The Chinese generals who surrendered Port Arthur to the Japanese have been sentenced by the Chinese government to be beheaded after six months' imprisonment. This is a pretty severe punishment for an act ld not avoid losing their lives. And yet it is the duty of a soldier to die in battle, if need be.

The Senate yesterday killed the Woman Suffrage Bill in short order. The Assembly should have done the same, instead of wasting several days over it in purposeless debate: for neither house has legal power to pass such a bill so long as the Constitution stands in its present form.

Now that the pay of the legislators has stopped they are naturally getting quite anxious to adjourn. Would it not be a good idea to limit their pay to thirty days, instead of sixty, and thus cut off a great many time-wasting bills and a great deal of wearisome gabble?

Mrs. Stella B. Irvine, national superintendent of Sunday-school work of the W.C. T.U., was present and was given the time for her department. She is very bright and intelligent on the subject, gaining the full attention of all present. One item she gave was of a Sunday-school rally in St. Paul where she addressed 12,000 children. She gave a plan of work for 1895, and answered the questions that were put very satisfactorily.

An all-day meeting of the evangelistic board was announced for Wednesday, March 13, to be a meeting of prayer for the Workers Home. On Tuesday, March 12, a reception is to be held for Mrs. Irvine at the temple from 3 to 5 o'clock. All are invited.

Mrs. Judge Foster, ex-president, of Canada, is also in this city for a time, and an invitation has also been extended to her to meet with the union at the reception. Delegates were elected to attend the Federation of Societies.

ing upon the plan of their motto: "The greatest good to the greatest number."

E. C. Kimball was elected secretary of the meeting, and the opening address was given by A. H. Neftzger, president of the Southern California fruit exchanges, who spoke at length upon the satisfaction given by the work of the exchanges and the dire necessity out of which the system had grown. The exchange method uses the most direct means to put the fruit into the hands of the consumer, and is neither a trust nor a corner nor does it seek to injure commission men. It only takes measures to protect both the buyer and the producer and thus to insure a reasonable profit to the fruit-grower.

There are eight incorporated fruit exchanges which rapresent 4000 cars of oranges this seeann. The whole is managed by the executive board and each exchanges has its own particular district. Thirty-one local associations are represented by the exchanges, and 4000 fruit-growers. Their present output is $2,500,000, and they expect in time to include all the growers in Southern California. The great object of these fruit exchanges is to market the crops with the least possible cost between the grower and the consumer. The exchange system costs only 2 or 3 per cent. instead of the old rates of from 7 to 15 per cent. originally paid to commission men. The freight expenses are also reduced about $100,000 by this system of co-operative marketing. The whole exchange system is purely co-operative and accountants, and the mutual benefit idea is maintained throughout.

The history of co-operative marketing, its past, present and future, was given in an address by T. H. B. Chamblin, the organizer of the Southern California fruit exchanges, he gave many details concerning the defects of the old system and the cytrus fruit industry in Southern California.

After Mr. Chamblin's speech the features of detail work and the routine busicirus fruit industry in Southern California.

After Mr. Chamblin's speech the features of detail work and the routine business of the district exchanges were given by S. C. Evans, Jr., acting for W. A. Perry, general secretary of the Riverside Fruit Exchange.

Responses heartly indorsing the exchange system were made by the representatives of the various business interests of Southern California, the speakers being J. O. Koepfil, president of the Merchants' Association; Maj. E. W. Jones, for the Chamber of Commerce; Maj. E. F. C. Klokke and William McFadden.

The representatives of the different exchanges were: H. R. Smith, vice-president of the Southern California Fruit Exchange, A. H. Naftzger, president of the Riverside Exchange; T. H. B. Chamblin of Riverside, organizer of the exchanges; Mr. Douglas of Duarte, J. C. Frisbie, E. A. Churcher and H. F. Norcross, representatives of the exceutive board, all of San Diego.

THE MUSIC.

The concerts were as well rendered and as cordially received as usual. The band responded to many encores, and played several extras, among them the "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin," by special request. This band is at its best when playing Wagner, and the "Bridal Chorus" was beautiful.

Today being the closing day of the fair, there is a grand musical programme. The most notable features are Von Weber's grand overture from "Oberon," an overture picturing a calm sea and happy voyage; the famous overtures of Beethoven and Mendelssohn, "Leonora" and "Ruy Blas;" a descriptive composition representing the races; the "Jolly Fellows Waltz," by request, and a march, dedicated to the Chamber of Commerce, and composed by Mr. Cassass. The band will also give two of its inimitable humorsques, "Talto," in which an inextricable confusion of ideas causes startling results, and "A Country Band," which is ambitious, but of somewhat limited capabilities. They rehearse the piece, and finally arrange to render at a concert. It being their first appearance before an audience, they are seized with stage fright; however, they finish the piece and congratulate themselves upon their success.

HIGH-PRICED ORANGES.

The auction sale of the prize boxes of oranges, which took place last night at 9 clock, was fairly good. The bidding for the thirteen boxes which were put up, was brisk, and the price of the box which were put up to $25, for which it was sold to Allen Bros. The fruit was grown on the ranch of G. W. Prescott, superintendent of motive power and machinery of the Southern California Railway, and also an extensive fruit-grower of Highland. Mr. Prescott's entire crop was purchased by Allen Bros., who took away between sixty and seventy carloads of oranges.

When this Chamber-of-Commerce prize was announced, James H. Yerkes, manager at Highland for Allen Bros., commenced to select the cream of the fruit under his charge. Nearly 4000 boxes passed under inspection. The finest of this chosen fruit, again and again, with the greatest care and patience, until a box of absolutely perfect fruit was obtained. This was entered under the name of the grower, bore off the gold medal, was bought for $25 by Allen Bros., and this morning starts off by Wells, Fargo & Co. to carry a tale of sunshine and baimy breezes to Gov. McKinley, who is to be the fortunate recipient of this splendid box of fruit.

Mr. Prescott grew it, and has the glory; Allen Bros. bought it, and have put it where it will do the most good, and Mr. Yerkes, whose skill and patience made such a box a possibility, has won and will wear the gold medal awarded by the Chamber of Commerce, thus dividing the honors with Gov. McKinley, who will eat the fruit.

Tonight the great fair will close, and, as a fitting valedictory, Beethoven's great overture, "Leonora," will be given by the band. Cassasa's Band is the only one on the continent that renders this magnificent composition, since the Gilmore Band broke up at the death of the leader. All Los Angeles should join in making this last night the most brilliant of the ten, and thus helping the fair to a finish as successful as its whole career.

Last evening was the last appearance of the Times linotype machine at the Citrus Fair, the show itself being so nearly over and the machine being needed in its place in the Times Building. Today the machine will be again placed with its nine companions and be made to do its share of work in getting up the Sunday paper. During its performance at the fair the operator in charge caused it to cast hundreds of the linotype bars for spectators who will long keep the metal souvenirs in remembrance of the occasion.

Mrs. O'Hara is to be given a chance to explain some things in connection with the poisoning of the two little boys in East Los Angeles. It may be that Mrs. O'Hara did not know there was strych-nine in the cakes she gave to the boys, and if so, she will have little difficulty in convincing a court, as she will be given an opportunity. When the animal, which was attached to a two-wheeled sulky, and had no driver, had passed the spot, three of the little girls were picked up in a bruised and bleeding condition and carried into Parrish's drug store near by.

Physicians were summoned and the injured little ones were afterward removed to the institution on Boyle Heights.

Leonita Teaver was the worst hurt, and the other two who were injured were Virginia Moniello and Susie Buissuille.

The horse which was the cause of the actions belonged to Boaz Duncan, but was being driven by some other person. In some manner the animal broke away and, with no one on the sulky, ran, with the dire results as stated.

citizens are of the opinion that one reason for the unsatisfactory attend-ence at the Citrus Fair up to date is the fact that the people have been rather over-done with expositions of one kind or an-other of late. The World's Fair, followed by the Midwinter Fair, used up a good deal of latent enthustasm on this subject, and then, on top of this, there will be the fiesta within a month, for which a good many Los Angeles people are already making preparations and laying their plans. It might have been a good idea, from a financial standpoint, to have made the Citrus Fair a feature of flesta week, although the difficulty in this case would have been the securing of a suitable location for the festivities connected with the fiesta. Perhaps, now that O. T. The San Francisco Call quotes R. S. Whitney of Los Angeles, who is stopping in that city, as saying that the desert mining country north of Indio has rece been making some very large yields.
"Only a few days ago," said he, "while I was in San Bernardino, a prospector was in San Bernardino, a prospector samed McHaney grought a flot of gold madgam in to have it retorted. It pro-luced about $700 in the precious metal. Mr. McHaney said that it represented the product of four tons of ore, which he mined, unaided, in nine days. The prop-erty from which this ore was taken is located about ten miles north of the Lost Horse mine, in the Pinon Mountains. The location has undergone no development, and the results obtained are entirely the and the results obtained are entirely the product of surface investigations. There is likely to be a good deal of prospecting in that locality mentioned this season, as reports indicate that there are very rich and promising grounds there." A NEW FLORAL FEATURE PRO POSED FOR THE PAGEANT.

To Show the Pretty Girls-A Letter Soliciting Co-operation in Mak-ing the Floral Display a Great Success.

A delightful feature for the floral pargeant of the fleeta has been proposed and blans for 'it are now under consideration. It is to have a company of young ladies who will participate in the parade riding decorated bicycles. It is not planned to have this organization composed of other than charming young misses, and a good many ideas are being suggested in the way of making the company a poem in color. The extent to which the riding of wheels has grown among schoolgirls and young ladies in the city is not perhaps realized by many. The bicycle lends itself admirably to floral decorations, and this very novel feature would be both appropriate and beautiful in the floral parade. It would be an easy matter to form a guard of hohor among wheelmen, if desirable, to act as an escort to the company. It has been suggested that by the organization of about fifty girls, or as many more as wished to join, a great many pretty floral designs could be worked out, such as the representation of different flowers and colors which would make the daintiest kind of effects and create one of, the quaintest and most brilliant features of the pageant. Among those who are working upon the idea is Miss Lulti Donnatin of No. 1301 Buena Vista street. The Floral Committee at a meeting yesterday afternoon decided to recommend individual prizes for this company.

The committee also adopted a letter of request to be sent throughout Southern California, aithough they do not wish any one to feel slighted if overlooked, and especially request all who will participate in the floral parade or supply flowers to communicate with them. capacity for a large audience will be furnished.

The committee already has the assurance of a very large number of proposed participants, such as will insure a magnificent display, but we wish to appeal to you and your friends to help swell the number and make this year's parade an unequaled success. Flowers of any and all kinds are solicited from such as cannot themselves take part in the paradeflowers and evergreens. There cannot be too many of these offered. A receiving depot' will be designated later and contributors notified when and where to send. A return postal card is sent with this letter, on which please state just what you will do to assist; if not by active participation, by domation of flowers, specifying kinds. If you can possibly do so, enter yourself, or with your friends, in the parade and compete for the prizes. The beauty and artistic tasto of all Southern California will be represented, and we want you to enter the lists. Decorate with natural flowers only, and fill your carriages with them also.

The day of the parade is not far distant. Flowers of all kinds, wild flowers as well as cultivated, will then be in greatest profusion. Celebrate with us and help create a day that will be always brightest among the memories of a fragrant past. As the committee should arrange its lists of participants at an early date, and may desire to publish such lists through the press, it is requested that you make as early a response as possible.

AS A WINTER RESORT

Onited States and Canada make the trip every winter. It has long been the place of fashionable favor, until it now has become one of the popular winter resorts of America's people of note and refinement. Flessure seekers and visitors of all classes are gratified without stint at the varied attractions, the abundance and character of the pleasures and pastimes provided for the enjoyment of guests at this favore? part of California. This may wall be called the paralise of the sportsman, as here there is boating, fishing, swimming in the hot and cold salt water tanks or in the surf, hunting, coursing with blooded hounds either on horseback or in a carriage. It has the finest driveways and roads for horseback exercise or biogeding on this coast. The hotel, which is the finest winter-resort hotel in America, has every modern convenience, including steam heat throughout the building. Unlike most hotels, instead of making a charge for its use, the management prefers that guests keep the steam turned on rather than off. They do not have to send to the office for permits, keys, or engineers to turn it on, but simple handy valves which any child can open are always in reach.

of Crime.

Among the inmates of the County Jall is one with a history. His name is Angelo Del Monte, and he is serving a fifty days' sentence for a disturbance of the peace committed at San Gabriel on or about January 1 last.

About five years ago Del Monte was convicted of having assaulted a man named Carreva with a deadly weapon and imprisoned therefor for two years. Upon regaining his liberty he sent a communication to a number of his former acquaintances against whom he had grudges to the effect that unless they furnished him with funds with which to leave the country they would hear from him when the nights were long and dark. No attention was paid to this manifesto, however, until August, 1893, when the barn of a Mrs. Cuneo was mysteriously burned. Although Del Monte had been seen on the premises on the day of the fire, there was no evidence tending to connect him with the affair, and as he left the scene about that time no steps were taken to bring him back on suspicion. Upon his return in December last, however, he disturced the country, Jail as above stated. Since that time, however, he has compiled another list of Italians from whom he proposes to levy money with which to leave the country, and it is said that he not only acknowledges having burnt Mrs. Cuneo's barn, but has expressed the desire to burn up that woman's store and ravish her daughter.

Gin Suey Dismissed.

Gin Suey Dismissed.

The case of Gin Suey, the Chinaman tried for vagrancy a number of days ago, was dismissed by Police Judge Owens yesterday. It will be remembered that the case was taken under advisement. It is thought that this dismissal will serve to avert trouble and possibly bloodshed between the rival tongs in Chinatown. Had he been convicted it is believed there would have been more work with the mad he been convicted it is believed there would have been more work with the hatchet. In the course of the trial a marriage certificate purporting to be for the defendant was introduced, and this made a serious obstacle for the prosecution to contend with. It seems that a number of months ago Wong Chee, the leader of the Bing Ong Tong faction, obtained several marriage certificates, and this fact leads to the belief that the certificates were procured for just such cases as the one in question.

Withdrawals of Bail Deposits.

In response to a request for an opinion as to whether or not an attorney in a criminal case has power to withdraw a deposit of bail money upon the determination of the case, or at any other stage of the proceedings, Deputy District Attorney James has addressed to W. W. Everett, clerk of the Police Court, an opinion in the matter. clerk of the Pouce Court, an opinion in the matter.

The opinion, which is concurred in by Dist.-Atty. Donnell and City Attorney Dunn, is to the effect that it is better to permit withdrawals of ball deposits in each case only upon order of the defendant. While there is nothing in the codes bearing expressly on the question, it is advised that such a rule be adopted.

Important to Property-owners. THEY SHOULD FILE STATEMENTS WITH CITY ASSESSOR.

City Assessor Hull wishes to urge property-owners to file statements of their property in his office at the earliest con-venient date. By so doing they will facilitate the work of making the city assess ment, and will also lessen the chance of them.

The owner of real estate should file in his office a description of his property, which description may be made out on a blank provided for the purpose. This description is to show the several pleces of property-owned by the person making it, and whether any improvements have been made on the property in each instance. On the back of the same blank may be written a description of the personal property owned by the one making the statements.

The person filing a statement of his or her real estate should take the trouble to Statements must be filed before the middle of May. This assessment, however, is entirely separate from the county assessment, and property-owners who have attended to one of these should not remain under the misapprehension that they have attended to both.

Main Street Improvement.

Councilman Kingery states that he be lieves that sufficient signatures for pre sentation to the City Council will so sentation to the City Council will soon be secured to the petition for the paving of Main street, from Ninth street to Washington street. The very bad condition of that thoroughfare during the winter rains has brought property-owners to realize the need of the improvement.

A Serious Problem.

The draining of the pool of filthy water at the corner of Sixth street and Park View avenue, near the northwest corner of Westlake Park, is proving a matter of greater difficulty than was anticipated. It was expected that two men with a hand pump would be able to remove the water within two or three days, but it has since been found that as it is drawn out more water seeps in, and but little progress can be made. On account of the amount of water seeping in it looks as if the problem would be a difficult, as well as a costly one, to deal with.

CIDED BY JUDGE YORK. Judge Waldo M. York yesterday rendered his decision in the case of G. W Wilson vs. E. J. Dole et al., an action to obtain judgment declaring the election of Wilson vs. E. J. Dole et al., an action to obtain judgment declaring the election of certain directors of the Irvington Land and Water Company illegal and void, judgment being ordered for the defendants therein, for the reasons stated in the following brief opinion:

This is a proceeding under sec. 315, of the Civil Code . . . which provides that "upon the application of any person or body corporate, aggrieved by an election of held by any corporate body, the District Court of the district in which such election is held must proceed forthwith to hear the allegations and proofs of the parties, or otherwise inquire into the matters of the complaint, and thereupon confirm the election, order a new one or direct such other relief in the premises as accords with right and justice."

The plaintiff is a stockholder of said corporation. In his complaint the plaintiff alleges that the notice of meeting at which said directors were elected was fliegal, unauthorized and void, "that of certain votes ast not to exceed 83½ were legal votes as far as affiant has been able to ascertain," "that the whole number of legal votes at said election was but 327, of which a majority was not received by any of said persons except H. A. Barclay, E. J. Dole and F. Townsend;" that the former directors "are now the only duly elected directors of said corporation." There are other allegations of similar import, but they are statements not of untimate facts, but of legal conclusions.

It is conceded that this court has succeeded to the jurisdiction of the old Discrete Court, and that this court has succeeded to the and the this court has succeeded to the and determine the case. The defendants contend, first, that plain.

tiff is required to set up the facts constituting his grievance, and that the rules of pleading prescribed by the Code of Civil Procedure govern the practice under that section. The statement of a legal conclusion of the pleader without the facts upon which they are based does not inform the opposing party what he is required to combait, and is poor pleading in any judicial procedure.

The complaint, however, is amendable, and I should not let justice miscarry on such a ground without first giving the plaintiff an opportunity of amending his complaint. The evidence was taken subject to objection by defendants, and from the evidence it is made to appear that an amendment of the complaint would availablaintiff nothing.

The plaintiff has based his right to the interference of the court principally upon the fact which he claimed to have establashed at the trial that E. J. Dole voted more shares, at the stockholders' meeting for the election of directors, than he was legally entitled to vote, in that said Dole was not the owner of certain shares of shock standing in his name. But Dole appeared on the books of the company as the owner of the stock which he voted. If he was not the owner of such stock the true owner can, in a proceeding for that purpose, recover the stock from him. If the owner remains inactive and permits Dole to appear on the books of the company as the owner of his stock, and as such owner vote the same at a stockholders' meeting, it is mpt for the plaintiff shows, he whom plaintiff claims to be the owner of the stock might have voted the same as Dole voted.

The plaintiff was present at the stock-holders' meeting and made no challenge of the votes cast by Docs. He took part in the meeting seems to have been based upon Dole's signing a call for the meeting as the holder of said stocks, to which plaintiff contends he was not entirled. Plaintiff cannot, after participating in the meeting, and making no challenge of Dole's right to vote the stock standing in Dole's name, now invoke the powers of a co

THE JUDGMENT AFFIRMED. THE JUDGMENT AFFIRMED.

The Supreme Court has affirmed the judgment of Judge Van Dyke in the case of W. R. Randolph (respondent) vs. Samuel Kraemer et al. (appellants.) an action to recover $2500 damages alleged to have been sustained by reason of the refusal of defendants to execute and deliver a certificate of the discharge of a mortgage, or cause satisfaction thereof to be entered, and for the statutory penalty of $100, in accordance with the opinion rendered by Commissioner Van Clief, which was received for filing in this city yesterday.

dered by Commissioner van Cillet, which was received for filling in this city yesterday.

A tract of 80 acres of land which was mortgaged to defendants by W. H. Shinn, was subsequently purchased by the plaintiff, who still owns the land. Shinn thereupon paid the moftgage debt, and demanded of defendants a certificate of discharge, or that they cause satisfaction to be entered of record, but they refused. Plaintiff had judgment for only the statutory penalty of $100, without costs, all other claims and demands in his complaint having been relinquished and waived in open court.

Before any evidence was offered dendants moved for a judgment of nonsuit on the ground that the court had no jurisdiction of the action, as the sum demanded was less than $300. The motion was denied, and appeliants contend the court erred in its ruling.

The verified answer of the defendants, putting in issue plaintiff's title to the mortgaged land, the Supreme Court holds that this issue was material, and further holds that the finding on the issue as to the demand that satisfaction of the mortgage be given or entered was sufficient.

A BURGIAR CONVICTED.

Rafael Neblino, a young Mexican, appeared before Judge Smith and a jury in Department One yesterday to answer to the charge of burgiary, he being accused of having broken into the residence of C. H. Fhillips at Alhambra in May, 1894, and stolen therefrom a number of portable articles. The matter was submitted to the jury at 3 o'clock p.m., and twenty minutes later that body returned into court with a verdict of guilty of burgiary in the second degree. Neblino was order to appear for sentence on Monday next.

HIS OWN LAWYER.

DUNCAN KEPT HIMSELF ON THE WITNESS STAND.

In His Libel Suit Against the Ex press Some Peculiar Documen-tary Evidence Was Introduced Yesterday.

she had previously read a short article in the Exemiter on the same subject two or three months earlier.

(An attempt was made to show that witness was not met at the depot on her arrival from Ogden by an Express reporter, but the court sustained the objection that it was not proper-examination. Both Col. Dursean and his attorney demarred to the ruling, but the letter finally conceded that it was not proper cross-examination, whereupon Judge McKiniey remarked: "I'm glad you agree with ine, for I'm going to adhere to my original ruling." The trial of the $20,000 libel suit instituted by Blanton Duncan against the Evening Express Company was commenced in earnest yesterday morning before Judge McKinley and a jury in Department Six, and occupied their undivided attention all day.

The amusing nature of the case and the peculiar iddosyncracles of the plaintiff attracted an unusually large number of spectators to Judge McKinley's courtroom, among them being several members of the bar and other prominent citizens.

The table in front of the bench presented more the appearance of that in a public library than that in a courtroom, it being littered with files and lose newspapers, saw books, dictionaries, almanace, caratch, which had a record other literary. The trial of the $20,000 libel suit insti sented more the appearance of that in a public library than that in a courtroom, it being littered with files and lose newspapers, law books, dictionaries, almanacs, scratch pads, legal cap and other literary paraphernalia, while in front of the plaintiff was a large-sized telescope basket which served the purpose of a brief bag. When the case was called and the jurofs had answered the roil-call, the plaintiff extracted from this repository a huge bundle of papers, and the proceedings commenced with the reading of the pleadings.

Blanton Duncan's complaint, which is a masterpiece of legal phraseology, set forth the fact that on August 15, 1894, the Evening Express published a long article under the caption of "Alma's Alarm," to the effect that a young lady named Alma Floyd had been so worked up by an article published by said Duncan in the People's Union, with refrence to the prophesies of one Prof. Faib, that she left her home in East Loe Angeles and fied to Helena, Mont., for safety.

At the conclusion of the reading of this document the answer of the defendant corporation, denying specifically and generally each and all of the allegations of the complaint, was read by H. T. Gage, Esq., together with the articles on the subject of the Faib predictions published in the People's Union, of which Duncan admitted he was the editor.

Much to the surprise of the assembled crowd the plaintiff offered no testimony, but, after introducing one of two more articles published by the Express upon the subject matter of the allegad libel, anaunced that he would rest his case.

Counsel for the defendant thereupon moved the court for a judgment of nonsuit upon the following technical grounds:

First—That the publication complained of is not now actionable per se; there being no evidence showing that the publication was either false or privileged.

Second—That there is no evidence showing or tending to show that the language complained of its susceptible of the meaning claimed by the palantiff in his complaint.

Third—That the compained of is susceptible of the meaning claimed by the plaintiff in his complaint.

Third—That the publication complained of its not a libel, and there is no evidence that it injured the said plaintiff either in his person or reputation or occupation.

Fourth—That no actual or special damages have been proved by plaintiff, and that the court cannot deduce from the plain signification of the language of the publication than any damage has been suffered by plaintiff.

Fifth—That the evidence given on behalf of the plaintiff has proven said publication to be substantially true.

At the close of the argument in support of this motion the court promptly denied it, much to the apparent satisfaction of the plaintiff, and Mr. Gage thereupon addressed the jury to the effect that the defendant not only expected to, but would certainly prove all the facts set forth in his answer to the complaint. He then detailed the circumstances which led up to the publication of the objectionable article.

The defendant's case was opened by the then detailed the circumstances which led up to the publication of the objectionable article.

The defendant's case was opened by the reading of a number of more or less lurid articles published in the People's Union during its brief career of five numbers. This part of the case was intrusted to W. I. Foley, Esq., who dwelt with telling effect upon the gruescme and thrilling topics discussed in the various articles. Each was offered and admitted in evidence in turn, sometimes without objection and at others over the objections of the plaintiff.

Occasionally the plaintiff was called to the witness-stand for the purpose of showing that he was responsible for the publication of these articles, a fact which he seemed rather proud to admit than otherwise. After several such calls, the plaintiff remained in the witness chair, whereupon counsel for the defendant remarked that he need not remain there unless he wished.

Col. Duncan replied that he was very he wished.

Col. Duncan replied that he was very comfortable, thanks, but Mr. Gage remarked: "Oh, I see. You want to fling that evil eye at me."

"You need not be afraid," retorted the plaintiff.

On reconvening at that hour, counsel for the defendant read a long article from the pen of Col. Dunean upon the subject of the influence of the Evil Eye, in which he recited forty-six instances of the terrible retribution which had been meted to his enemies at various periods of his career. When Mr. Gage reached the point which related to the evil which befell a lawyer who conducted a case against him, Mr. Gage suddenly stopped, and, turning to his partner, said: "Read the rest of this, Mr. Foley, I'm scared," and sat down. AFTERNOON SESSION.

ing to his partner, saut: here are all of this, Mr. Foley, I'm scared," and sat down.

Every one in the countroom, except the plaintiff, smiled at this saily, but that worthy was too intent upon the reading of his own handiwork to notice it.

At the close of the reading of the article referred to, Col. Duncan was again called to the stand, and asked whether or not he predicted the result of the last election with such success as to secure $11,000 out of "Lucky" Baldwin's coffers on a bet. The court, however, sustained Mr. Brunson's objection to the question and the plaintiff was excused.

Mrs. Alma Smith, nee Floyd, a tall and handsome brunette, then took the witness-stand and testified to the effect that after reading the article on "Fab's Calculations" in the People's Union, she was so alarmed that she borrowed money sufficient for her purpose and left this city for Helena, Mont, A number of people on the train who heard of her alarm convinced her that there was nothing in the predictions, and on arrival at Ogden the testiment of the returned.

Frank L. Floyd, the father or one preceding witness, testified to the effect that he stated the facts contained in the alleged libelous article to a member of the staff of the Express.

Upon cross-examination, he stated that he called at the offices of all the newspapers for the purpose of preventing the publication of a sensational story, as he felt it his duty to do so. This was before his daughter's return but after he had publication of a sensational story, as he felt it his duty to do so. This was before his daughter's return, but after he had learned of her flight. His idea in going to the Express office was that of inducing them to say nothing about the affair.

"And this," querfied Mr. Brunson, as he pointed to a copy of the Express. "was their compliance with your request?"

Mr. Gage's objection to this evidence as entirely argumentative, was sustained. Further documentary evidence was thereupon offered by the defense, during the remainder of the day's session, and the matter thereupon went over until 10 o'clock this morning.

Shortly after adjoirnment, Mr. Gage, in the temporary absence of his partner, essayed to read an article which had already been read.

"It has been read," said Col. Duncan, "and I'll put up all the momey—"
"Don't!" interrupted the court. "Don't undertake to bet here, Col. Duncan, for the court will not hold the stakes."

The plaintiff apologized for his hasty remark, and, amid the titters of the audience, subsided.

eneral features of the Citrus Fair on fully described from day to main feature of the exhibit, namely, fruit itself. As to the general argement and decoration of the hall, ry one agrees that it is more beautiful tistic than has ever been seen be fore at any similar exhibition in Los Angeles. It may also truthfully be said geles. It may also truthing to be not feel that it is as fine, if not finer, in quality than any that has ever been placed on exhibition in Southern California, which, of course, is equivalent to saying that it is the finest Citrus Fair ever held in the United States. What especially strikes the observe who has seen other similar displays, at this fair is the uniform good appearance as to size, color and other visible qualiof the fruit. The schoolmaster has cyidently been abroad among the orange-growers during the past few years, and they have learned a good deal about pre-paring their fruit for market. As this display is made chiefly by the Southern California fruit exchanges, it is proper to give them a portion of the credit for Another fact which strikes the observing visitor is that there has been less runvisitor is that there has been less run-ning to varieties in the orange display. It is true that there is a good showing of St. Michael, bloods, Mediterranean sweets and Valencias, with a few seedlings, but more than ever before the navel takes the lead, while the seedling is scarcely "in it" at all. Our orange-growers appear to be settling down to the navel as the most satisfactory orange which they can grow, and yet there is much to be said for some of the other varieties notably the St. Michael and the Valencia

One excellent feature of the fair this year is the fact that the main hall has been devoted mainly to the chief objects of the fair, the exhibition of citrus fruits, so that, with very few exceptions, the ground floor is occupied by oranges, lem-ons and grape fruit. This is an improvement over former years which gives the fair a dignified and business-like appearance, so that while the esthetic side of fair is decidedly ahead of anythin that has ever been seen, the practical end of the display is also beyond criticism.

The fruit exhibit which strikes the eye on entering the door is that of San Diego.

This display is not so exclusively one of citrus fruits as most of the others Among the varied products shown are guavas, raisins, citron, olives and cilve oil and marmalade, besides oranges and lemons. There is quite a display of cilve oil from the celebrated Kimball factory has carried away a good many pre miums. San Diego is more of a lemo-than an orange-growing section, and prom ducer of the pale yellow fruit.

The Duarte Fruit Exchange has a hand some display of oranges and lemons, including some fine tangerines. Duarte is one of the oldest orange-growing sections in Southern California. Its fine fruit had wide reputation at a time when scarcel anything but common seedlings were raised in other sections.

Orange county has a display which i conspicuous owing to a design of the American flag, worked out in oranges wrapped in red, white and blue paper The quality of the fruit shows that Or ange county is worthy of its name, and can raise good oranges, as well as wal-nuts and deciduous fruits. A large bunch of dates is shown from Anaheim. The Semi-Tropic Fruit Exchange, which includes Downey and Rivera, the of Los Angeles county, makes a large and attractive display which aston ishes a good many people who have an idea that the Downey section is only adopted to the raising of pumpkins, "hogs and hom-

Ontario is, as usual, recognized at on by the great display of lemons, of which profitable fruit the Model Colony has for several years made a specialty-not only t has made money. The table of oranges is also good including some very fine St. Michaels. It is a wonder that more of the latter variety of oranges are not raised in Southern California, as there always a good market for them. Their uniformity of size, thinness of rind and good flavor recommend them to many people, even in preference to the lordly na-

Pomona has a long table under the bandstand on which are displayed a large quantity of clean fruit of fine quality, including some choice specimens of the sweets. There would be more of a display of olives and oil in the Pomona exhibit were it not that the two leading olive men of that place have separate displays of their own which are mentioned further

Riverside occupies the lion's share of the space at the Pavilion. It is very evident that Riverside is not yet prepared to take a back seat as the leading orange-growing section of Southern California, in spite of the loud talk of the good people who raise oranges in the upper end of the Santa Ana Valley. Riverside not only has a large quantity of fine fruit, but a great variety, including some citrus fruit which is a novelty to most of the visitors. It is

Colony of Riverside county, has a most attractive display of fruit of particularly fine color, including some fine blood or-anges. South Riverside will soon take a leading part in orange shipments from Ventura county, which has lately gon into the orange business, makes an attractive display of citrus fruit, dried fruits and other products. The town of Fillmore itself makes a very creditable display, showing that its location is well adapted to the raising of citrus fruits.

The display made by the Azusa Valley, including Azusa, Covina and Glendora, is under the gallery on the right-hand side of the hall as you enter. It has a large display of good, plump, well-colored fruit, including oranges and lemons. The area of orange orchard in the Azusa Valley has been largely increased during the past few years by a number of wealthy Eastern people who have come in and bought land which they have cultivated thoroughly and planted to the best varieties The shipments of oranges from Azusa are already large and will be heavier within

One of the most attractive displays in the hall, although it does not include citrus fruits, is that of the Rosecrans ranch, which is located just this side of Redondo The display is unique and tasteful, consisting of miscellaneous fruits, both fresh and dried, beans, etc., the whole embowered in graceful flowers and foliage.

Up in the gallery J. S. Calkins, the well-known olive man of Pomona, has a table of olives in jars which is a revelation to those who have an idea that all olives are about the same. Mr. Calkins shows over a hundred jars of different varieties or cirves, varying in size from that of a small gooseberry to a large plum and in color from pure cilve green through all shades of red and purple to almost jet black. It is a most interesting display.

Howland Bros., who have one of the few oil mills in Southern California, make an attractive display of clive oil and some of the appliances which are used in ex-tracting the oil from the berries. The Howland oil has received high premiums at a number of fairs.

The agricultural chemical works of Prof.

Woodbridge makes an interesting display of a great variety of products which are turned out at this establishment, including by-products of the lemon and lime in great variety, such as citric acid, essences, etc., also olive oil, marmalade, castor oil and fertilizers. This factory is doing good work in utilizing a variety of products which would otherwise go to waste. It is understood that these works will, before long, be greatly enlarged.

Altogether, the present Citrus Fair is a grand object lesson of the importance of this industry to Southern California. Some means should be found to hold such a fair every year in Los Angeles, whether assistance is received from the Legislature

Crops and Markets.

The weather during the past week has seen fine, with some fog in the morning, and the outlook at this writing is that there will be a rain before long. Weather prophets say that it ought to rain at the to get a little moisture.

The orange market continues to boom and there is a big demand from all parts of the country. No further advance has yet been made in the price of choice oranges by the exchanges, while seedlings en reduced 10 cents, but should the and keep up it is not improbable that a further advance will be made.

The success which has attended the organization of the orange-growers has stimulated other producers to act in the to form an organization of the strawberry growers in the Azusa Valley, where very large crops of this fruit are raised. The probability is that before long every branch of production among the horticul-turists and farmers will be organized for mutual assistance and protec

Butter has been very low during the week, in fact lower than has ever before been known in this section, the cause being the accumulation of large stocks in the northern part of the State. Eggs have been steady at about 13 cents, the ship-ments of eggs to the East having had the effect of preventing any further decline. There has been no drop of any conse-quence in the price of hay, but the time is a novelty to most of the visitors. It is called the "Castleman lime" and is of about the same size and shape as a Bartlett bear. Raisins of good quality are also displayed.

As might be expected, the orange-growers of Riverside have reduced the art of packing their fruit to a science. Several boxes of oranges packed in first-class style are displayed. There is also shown an improved orange box, designed by a Riverside man. It is made by machinary and weighs three pounds less than the ordinary box. The manufacturar claims that Riverside alone would save 35,000 a year on freight by using this box, as well as $15,000 represented by the saving of 2 cents in the cost of the box. This saving in freight would not, however, be made as long as the railway company charges for the box at a certain weight, whatever that weight may be.

Some of the finest fruit in the hall is to be found on the table of the Colton, San Burnardino county and Highland sections.

reckless manner which has heretofore characterized our methods. No more can we afford to have our crops fall for the lack of certain needed elements. To use fertilizers intelligently we must first clearly realize that their office is to supply certain elements in which the soil is deficient but which are absolutely essential to the successful development of the crop. This understood, it is at once apparent that science and practical experience must combine to determine he proper fertilizer for each field and crop. As a general rule, commercial fertilizers applied to barren land, destitute of humus, are not profitable. Let us therefore make all the bome manure that we can, plant leguminous crops, and as an adjunct we will find that we can use profitably all the commercial fertilizers that we are able to buy.

Manures for Sandy Soil.

Manures for Sandy Soil.

Manures for Sandy Soil.

(American Cultivator:) The perosity of sandy soil causes all vegetable matter deposited in it to decay rapidly, as it is thus brought into contact with the air. This makes it very quick to respond to manure, and it also makes it need frequent dressing of some fertilizer for each crop. We have often heard it advised to apply to sandy soil coarse vegetable matter, or manure mixed with straw and other coarse material used for bedding. This will decay and form humus; but the humus will itself burn up very quickly. Sandy soils are usually very dry in midsummer. If the coarse manure is applied late in the season it makes it makes the sandy soil still dryer if plowed under or mixed with the soil. The best way to get vegetable matter into sandy soil is by green manuring with clover. The succulent stalks, leaves and roots of growing clover furnish water enough to root themselves down, and they make the soil moister all the season than sandy soil not thus manured. It potash in some form is added to a clover sward almost anything can be grown on sandy soil thus manured.

In the dairying regions the average fertility of the soil is of a higher standard than that prevailing in any other part of the country, and one of the greatest bene-fits that dairying is conferring upon agriculture in general is the improvement of the soil. While the soil is slowly but steadily deteriorating in the corn and wheat regions, it is universally improving in the dairy regions. In the Eastern States, where dairying is carried on extensively, many old, worn-out farms have been grad-ually restored to their former pristine strength and productiveness, and if farmers should take some of these farms that twenty years ago would scarcely raise anything, they would find that en of grains or vegetables or fruits could be

Dairy Notes.

Dairy Notes.

(American Cultivator:) Prof. Henry of the Experiment Station at Wisconsin tested the value of cutting corn fodder by feeding one lot of cows upon whole fodder, bright and sweet. Another lot of equal milking qualities had fodder from the same mow cut into pieces a half-inch long. He found that he obtained as much milk from 721 pounds of cut fodder. Two tons cut would thus be worth more than three tons uncut. This agrees very closely with the results of our own experience when feeding by guess and not by weight. We could only testify to the best of our belief according to our judgment, but he can now speak from positive knowledge gained by daily weighing. The richest and most nutritious part of the cornstalk is the coarser parts of the butt, which the cattle reject when it is not cut for them. If any is wasted after cutting it makes good bedding and afterward is a good addition to the manure heap add more to the labor of handling it than would be required in cutting it before feeding.

Maj. Alvord goes still further and advocates grinding the corn fodder into meal. We do not know of any mill that would do this, but there are machines that reduce it almost to chaff. The gain from doing this must arise from easier or more thorough digestion, as the waste not eaten when cut to half-irnch lengths is so small as sacreely to be appreciable.

One writer upon the question of dehorning says that he does not know whether the process is cruel or not; but his cows that were operated on never lost a regular feed or shrank a quart of milk in their production because of it, and those that were underlings of the herd and forced to stand out of doors while their long-horned companions monopolized the shed last winter do not seem to think there is any cruelty about it, as they also have a chance to get under cover this winter.

The advantages of perfect climatic conditions in breeding horses for profit are admitted by thoughtful men who are informed upon the subject. That such con-ditions possess an equal value in the problem of how to produce these animals in their very best form must be ap-parent to even the most superficial stu-dent of the climatology of the horse. The question is certainly of the first importance to men who are willing to spare neither money nor pains in their efforts to "beat the world" in the paramount qualities of speed and endurance. The ential climatic conditions for the health are sunshine, an equable temperature, and a pure atmosphere. These, with suitable exercise regularly taken, and proper feeding and care in other respects, must in-evitably bring him to the highest possible state of perfection.

Balky Horses. (Poultry and Stock Review:) Prof. O. W. Gleason tells us in his book how to break horses of the balking habit. He says:

"When the horse balks in the harness "When the horse darks in the harness it is not from any unwillingness to perform his duty, but from some confusion or excitement arising from mismanagement. He is willing and anxious to go, but too eager or high spirited to make the steady ning around, tring quickly. This will bring the horse in the form of a half circle, his head fast to his tail by the halter strap. Your object is to break up his confidence in himself, and nothing on earth, no process you can subject him to will do it half as soon as this.

"Should he not rest round very freely touch him behind with the whip which will cause him to move sharply. Simply keep him moving until he falls down by becoming dissy, which he will do inside of a minute and a half. Let him lie a few minutes; then the him in the opposite direction and put him through until he falls or is unable to move; then put on your Bonaparte bridle and give him a few sharp jerks to the right and left to show him you can handle him by the head as well as by the tail. Thus train him until he will spring to the right and left and straight forward when you ask him to, and then you are in a shape to put him in harness. If he refuses to draw step in front of him with the bridle on, fetching him either way first and then straight ahead, and in a short time you will work it out of him. If at any time your horse should become warm, put him aside and let him cool. You will gain time by it, for when sulky and heated he is in no shape to learn."

Selecting Heifer Calves.

(American Cultivator:) Almost from its birth an expert in judging of cows can decide whether a heifer calf-will be a profitable cow or had better be turned off to the butcher as yeal. It is not altogether a matter of pedigree. The signs of a good cow are a rather thin neck, but a deep chest, and the peculiar velvety feel of the skin that can only be made certain by experience. The marks of the escutcheon on a heifer are plainly distinguishable by an expert, though they may not show so that ordinary observers can see them. It sometimes happens that the heifer which gives the signs of a good cow at first runs to beefiness after her first year. This comes from feeding food that is too fattening, and which has not enough succulence. There is either pedigree or deterioration in dairy qualities in the cow from her calfhood up. The best milkers are usually those who are bred earliest, but after the first calf it is well to keep the heifer from breeding for a full year, in order to develop greater vigor of constitution, which is impaired by too early breeding.

wenty-four hours of a young chick's life is the proper amount of heat. When un-der the hen about the same temperature is given to the eggs hatching and the chicks hatched, and it is a great mistake to take chicks from an incubator where the temperature is about 102 deg, and put them in a brooder where the temperature is between 80 and 90 deg.; 100 deg. is none too warm for the little chicks for the first tion is good and a constant current of fresh air is entering the brooder.

A Fowl's Stomach. A Fowl's Stomach.

(Poultry and Stock Review:) Fowls swallow their food, broken or not, and it enters the crop or first stomach and remains in it until it has become softened, more or less. When a small quantity at time, just as grain runs into a grist mill, it is forced into the gizzard among the grit. The gizzard is a strong, muscular stomach, and it is at work night and day, when there is a grist to grind, similar to bellows, contracting and expanding, and thus forcing the grit into the grain and thus forcing the grit into the grain and triturating the whole mass, after which it is in a suitable condition to be quickly digested.

There is a good deal of labor con-nected with beets, but perhaps no more than with any other vegetable or cereal The ground first has to be care against a dry season twice is advisable once crosswise. Then it must be har-rowed and rolled, when it is ready for the drill, which will plant several rows at once about fifteen inches apart. When these come up they have to be thinned leaving one only in every eight or ten inches. This work is better done by boys and girls.

AUTHOR OF "A MODERN HEATHEN."

The famous Southern novelist, Mrs. E. Burke Collins, tells of her complete recovery from Nervous Debility by the use of Paine's Celery Compound.

The London Graphic, in its recent summing to have its effect on the recuperative power, of Paine's celery compound gave me strength up of the half dozen successful novels of the ear, includes with Du Maurier's"Trilby." Hall Caine's "Manxman," Conan Doyle's "Sherlock Holmes," "The Heavenly Twins," and "Ships that Pass in the Night," Mrs. E. Burke Colins's "A Modern Heathen."

Speaking of this last work of our distinuished Southern author, the Graphic says: "What George W. Cable's writings are to the Creoles of New Orleans, Miss Murfree to the rough strata of humanity among the Ten-nessee mountains and Gertrude Atherton to California, Mrs. E. Burke Collins's are to the cadians of the Louisiana Pine Lands. In her latest work Mrs. Collins has struck a new rein in literature, opening to the novel-reading world a vision of the real life of the adians of the backwoods, among the wild, scarcely-known region of the bayous and wamps of Louisiana." Besides her novels she contributes each week of her nervous system. At one time she found herself tired out and weak from such uninter rupted work; she became nervous and incapable of work; she even saw nervous prostration staring her in the face. The general toning up that her system needed so badly she found in Paine's celery compound. Today she is erfectly well and strong again, busy as ever with her brain and pen, and grateful to when failure and trouble and despair seemed about to close round her and shut her off from everything that was dear to her. She

OUR WINE RATE.

No Cutting in Freight Rates Contemplated.

How Passenger Agent Morse Lost Batch of the Company's Annual Passes.

Orders for Rolling Stock—Two Com-posite Cars for the Southern Pacific-A Prize Superintendent.

On the 15th inst. the new freight sched-ule of the Transcontinental Freight Com-mittee went into effect. The orange crop now being harvested is causing the usual rush, and cars have to be brought back from the East as quickly as possible to meet the local demand. These are the days when that little-known official, "the car finder," is kept busy. As both roads have just about as much business as they can comfortably handle freight rates are secure for the present. In Chicago, the focal point of the entire railroad service of the country, the conflicting interests of the many roads centering there give rise almost daily to points of difference that if left unadjusted might tend to demoral-ize general traffic. At present, however, there is no disquietude in the air with regard to Coast freight rates, save per-haps in one particular. When the mini-mum rate on wine from California points was raised by the Southern Pacific from 30 cents to 50 cents, the Santa Fe mini-mum being then at the latter figure, it was an open question whether the rate moralization in general rates which fol-lowed the action of the Merchants' Association at San Francisco, and which re-sulted to some extent in a recoil upon the merchants themselves has served the merchants themselves has served that good purpose—that is, good for the railroads—that so far as west-bound rates are concerned they are no longer crying for wholesale reduction. It was found that with very low rates the local retailer gave the wholesale merchant the go-by and ordered direct from the Eastern manufacturer. As a consequence the merchants are content to pay a higher freight rate and retain the custom of the retailers.

Shipments East, however, fall into a different category and if the rate on California wine should be raised to 75 cents a united howl would go up. The point to be settled is very simple. Would such a rate compel the resumption of shipments around the Horn? If so the rate will not be made, if not, then in the not too remote futuer the rate will be made. A BATCH OF PASSES.

A BATCH OF PASSES.

When S. F. B. Morse, general passenger agent for the Southern Pacific at New Orleans, arrived in Los Angeles a few weeks ago with a party of railroad officials, he proceeded to take in all the sights like any ordinary individual. He carried a heavy leather pocket-book in his inside pocket and within its folds were laid carefully away all of Mr. Morse's annual passes over the multitudinous roads of the country. While out with a coaching party given by Capt. Banning the vaituable pocketbook was lost, at least Mr. Morse thinks it was during this trip that the mishap occurred. Now he is patiently sitting in his office at New Orleans waiting in penitential mood until that bundle of passes are returned to him. They are no good to any one but the owner, and the $1.50 currency, the bad penny, and the lucky coin with a hole in it, also contained in the pocketbook, the finder may keep as a reward for his honesty if he hands over his find at the Southern Facific office.

TWO NEW CARS.

Two new composite cars were received by the Southern Pacific yesterday from the shops at Sacramento. They have been built especially for the Santa Ana branch, each car containing three com-partments. There is a commodious twenty-six-foot smoking compartment, a sixteep oot smoking compartment, a sixteen-baggage and express, and an eight-

ORDERS FOR ROLLING STOCK. ORDERS FOR ROLLING STOCK.

About a week ago allusion was made to the decline in orders for rolling stock since the close of the World's Fair at Chicago. The Pullman Car Company, in its report, says that there can be no improvement in the ralfroad business until a good crop, is assured, but in other lines business is giving evidence of improvement. The Southern Pacific has given orders for 350 ventilated fruit cars; the Missouri, Kansas and Texas wants 2000 freight cars; the New York Central has placed orders for 3000 cars; the Illinois Central has ordered 1000 freight and 300 refrigerator cars; the Duluth and Iron Range 400 ore cars; the St. Louis and the Alton and Tefre Haute 125 furniture and box cars.

The Southern Pacific order for forty cars.

The Southern Pacific order for forty new locomotives is now being filled and the Boston and Albany has placed an order for twenty freight docomotives at Schenectady, and the Lehigh Valley has ordered twenty-five freight and five passenger locomotives from the Baldwin works. It will thus be seen that those large orders, while very satisfactory in themselves, have additional significance as indicating the expansion of business in various parts of the country.

The gross receipts of the Interoceanic were $43,483.13, against $48,665.43. The gross receipts of the Vera Cruz road amounted to $68,368.39, against $64,215.39. The approximate earnings of the Mexican Central system were $168,972.34, against $177,075.61 for the similar period last year. is an honor of which railroad me will doubtless be very proud that G. W. Prescott, who won the $50 gold medal awarded by the Chamber of Commerce for awarded by the Chamber of Commerce for the best box of oranges, is an old-time railroad man. He is superintendent of motive power on the Southern California road, and was prominently identified with the plan for applying the Booth oil-burning apparatus to the locomotives on that road. His orange grove that yielded the prize fruit is situated at Highlands, and Mr. Presect has demonstrated the possibility of a man being a successful railroad official and a grower of prize fruit at one and the same time.

THE MAYOR OF SAVANNAH.

The Los Angeles Council, A. P. A. Thanks Him in Resolutions. Council No. 18, A.P.A., at a meeting assembled, passed a set of resolutions bearing on the experience of ex-Priest Slattery during his tour in the South. Slattery during his tour in the South. The resolution is to the effect that a body of men known as the "Ancient Order of Hibernians," aided and abetted by a large number of the adherents and sympathizers on a recent date, in the city of Savannah, Ga., threatened and attempted to do personal bodily injury and to kell ex-Priest Slattery and his wife, but the efforts were thwarted by the Mayor refusing to be buildozed into prostituting the powers of his high office to the insolent demands of this howling mob of foreign sympathizers of the Pope, but 'hid the manhood, moral courage, stamina and patriotism to stand for the right against religious fanaticism, and to fearlessly, impartially and, regardless of the consequences to himself, use all the force at his command to quell this riot against free speech, and to protect individual rights of free speech, as well as the lives and property under his protection. The resolution praises the bold and fearless stand taken by the Mayor of Savannah in upholding constitutional law, in protecting that vital principle upon which American liberty is based, the right of free speech and personal liberty, and the right of protection by law, and in maintaining the respect and dignity of an American city by promptly using all the power at his command in suppressing in his city the riots, and express appreciation and honor for him for the Americanism, the patriotism and the manhood he displayed. PASADENA.

NOTED CHICAGO DIVINE'S LEC-TURE ON GEORGE ELIOT.

What the Insurance Agents' Combination Will Try to Do—Progressive Euchre at the Green.

Personal Items.

PASADENA, March 8.—(Special Correspondence.) Dr. Jenkins Lloyd Jones, one of Chicago's most able divines, lectured Thursday evening at Throop Institute, upon "George Eliot." In the literary world, Dr. Jones occupies a high position, his essays, criticisms and sermons being marked by great ability, ripe scholarship, carnestness and, more rare than any of these qualities, he possesses unusual originality, both of thought and expression. In personal appearance Dr. Jones greatly resembles the portraits of Count Tolstof, and, as a preacher, Unitarianism has not his superior. In his audience in Pasadena Thursday night there were many persons who in Chicago, others who were tashina with literary work, and still others to whom his reputation was known. Thus he was in accord with his listeners, and his lecture was a treat. He outlined the early history of George Eliot and showed how her life was expressed in her writings. He pointed out her insight into character, her deep learning, her innate religion and her philanthropical spirit, criticising in his just and incisive way, her best-known romances and touching upon her poetry, which he compared to that of Emerson. Extolling the spirit of industry which was manifested by George Eliot, the lecturer adverted to the necessity of hard work in accomplishing anything worthy in life, and grew somewhat sercastic upon the modern tendency toward short-cuts and cheap methods of attaining an ephemeral fame. George Eliot's personal mistakes were referred to, and, with a high tribute to her genius, moral teachings and unselighness, Dr. Jones finished his interesting address.

plano until nearly midnight.

ECHO MOUNTAIN NOTES.

The brilliant rainbow effect of the searchlight upon the clouds in the valley Thursday night drew forth hearty applause from the spectators at the hotel. After the display, the telescope of the Lowe observatory was put in operation, and all witnessed, in an unusually clear sky, the belts and moons of Jupiter and other interesting objects in the heavens. Among the visitors to the observatory were: H. W. Brown, the millionaire gas king of Minneapolis, and family; Mr. and Mrs. P. Hawkins, Miss K. Hawkins and Miss. Foss of Minneapolis; C. D. Ville, Mrs. S. H. Ville and Mrs. S. H. Harper of Modine; W. A. Scripps, Detroit; Mrs. F. Scripps-Kellogg, Cleveland, O.; Miss K. L. Spencer, Waterbury, Ct., and Dr. and Mrs. E. W. Wood of Chicago.

The clouds which hung over Echo Mountain were said by the guests to be void of the dampness left in the valley. Dr. E. W. Wood and wife of Chicago, who came up for a stay of one night, were so well pleased that they have decided to remain several days. Among the arrivals of the day was John Sebastian, general passenger and ticket agent of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Raliroad, and his son Don; also F. W. Thompson and wife of Los Angeles. Those who registered to-day are: Rev. Dr. Jenkins Lloyd Jones, Ohicago; J. P. Farrington, Mrs. F. A. Barnard and Mrs. A. B. Fall, Minneapolis; Mrs. J. M. Fox, Miss Hattle Brockaway and Harry C. Fox of Chicago; Dr. Byron W. Richards and W. Whitney Wood, Cambridge, Mass.; Dr. L. O. Lane and wife, San Francisco, and Leo Scherba, St. Louis.

THE INSURANCE COMBINATION. THE INSURANCE COMBINATION.

There has been much dissatisfaction among the fire insurance agents of Passdena for a long time, because of the action of the general agents of San Francisco, who are in the habit of accepting insurance from agents who are non-residents, and paying to them the customary commission, while their local agent is left out in the cold and given no credit as the representative of the company. The abuse has grown to such proportions that the agents have combined to put a stop to it. Organized as the Fasadena Board of Fire Underwriters, they have formed an organization for mutual protection, and have issued a circular letter to the general agents which reads to them the riot act in very plain and diguified language. They have not only requested the companies to discon-tinus the objectionable practice, but have stated that if they fail to do so they will use all honorable methods to prevent the use all honorable methods to prevent the companies from having representation of any kind in Pasadena, and have pledged themselves one and all, to accept no renewals from them, but will assist the agent resigning their business to obtain the same for other companies represented by him. One important effect of the organization of the fire underwriters will probably be the lowering of the rates of risk on all city property centrally located.

The Southern Pacific has taken up the work of rebeautifying its grounds at The Palms. The whilom park will be rehabilitisted, and with that and other improvements the depot and surroundings, which have been greatly benefited by the recent change of grade, will once more become an attractive introduction to the place. Now, if The Palms citizens will take hold in the spirit of co-operation and trim up their trees, grade the approaching streets, set out a few ornamental shrubs and make the place equal to the chance nature has given ft, the station will become known for its attractiveness by all travelers.

The Corona picked up about twenty-five passengers on her way to San Francisco this afternoon. The boat's master has had it reported from San Diego that a sea swell caused his bump here as the boat went south. White the whether-or-not of this proposition is being finally discussed in the investigation likely to follow, it is more than probable its companion question as to whether the captain or the party under his official cap was in charge of the boat at the time the bump occurred will also be inquired into. There be swells and swells; the question is, what sort, was it that raked the Corona's rail?

TWO BOYS SENT TO PRISON FOR COMMITTING BURGLARY.

Bicycle Thief Goes to Whittier Will Experiment with Hops as a Grop—Notes from Orange.

SANTA ANA, March 8.—(Special Correspondence.) Joseph Melvin and John Schear, the two misguided youths who broke into the residence of J. R. Walker of this city something over a month ago and stole a watch, together with a quantity of clothing, must pay the penalty of their criteria.

their crime.

Judge Towner today sentenced them each to two years in the State's Prison at Folsom, and Deputy Sheriff Ulm departed on the noon train for the North with the prisoners.

Notwithstanding the fact that the law has been violated and the boys deserved to be punished, yet they are to be pitled. Driven by hunger and almost nakedness, they broke into the house above mentioned and after beligher themselves. they broke into the bouse above mentioned and, after helping themselves to whatever they could find, departed, taking with them a watch and several suits of clothing. They then walked to San Bernardino, where they were arrested with the clothing they had stolen on their backs. They are both under 20 years of are and refuse to tell where their homes are or give their parents, names.

THE OTHER WATE PERGUED.

THE OTHER WAIF RESCUED.

Supervisor Armor and Deputy Sheriff Jack Landell returned Thursday evening from Santiago Canyon, where they had some for the other little waif, a brother to the one that was brought before the Board of Supervisors last Monday. The little fellow was secured and brought to this city where he is being kindly cared for under the supervision of the Supervisors, together with his older brother, at August Bila's on West First street. The Mexican in whose cruel care the little fellow had been had entirely deserted this last little fellow after drawing the last amount from the county for his support last Monday. The boy was found with several dogs, all half staryed, where the Mexican had formerly stayed.

CRUEL TO HIS DOG. THE OTHER WAIF RESCUED.

CRUEL TO HIS DOG. CRUEL TO HIS DOG.

J. W. Swinney, a resident who halls from across the raging Santa Ana River, toward Westminster, was arrested in this city today, charged with violently beating and unnecessarily abusing his dog. It seems that Mr. Swinney desired the dog to remain in his wagon and the canine wanted to follow his master. POMONA, March 8.—(Special Correspondence.) A sad accident happened to Mrs. O. J. Brown, one of Pomona's wellknown women, while in Los Angeles Thursday in attendance on the Citrus Fair. known women, while in Los Angeles Thursday in attendance on the Citrus Fair. In dismounting from the steps of a street car in some way a misstep fractured one of the bones of her leg just above the ankle. On arrival of the 5:37 local from Los Angeles at the Southern Pacific depot here yesterday afternoon she was met by her husband and son George, who, after conveying her to a vehicle in waiting, drove her to the family residence on the corner of Third and Elmina streets.

Work was commenced this morning upon the foundation of the Phil Stein brick block. This will make things look still more lively on the Garey avenue and Second street junction.

Little Grace Bennett now has one of the smallest, but "cutest," little "outing rigs" in the whole city, which the young miss has become quite skilled in driving. Much comment and unusual interest have been developed in portions of this community by the series of meetings now in progress at the church of the Seventh Day Adventists, the subjects covering the ground of spiritualism and the prophecies of Daniel and Revelations.

The local fight in some of the home weeklies here on the co-operative mercantile scheme in question, has been quite pointed.

THE CHURCHES.

Revival Services Still Drawing Interested Audiences.

ested Audiences.

The audience at the First Christian Church last night was the largest of any night this week, showing that the deep interest manifested in these meetings is by no means falling off. The story of Elijah on Mt. Carmel was read as a besis for a sermon on "Decision" by Evangelist MacLane, and the need of prompt action, the simportance of personal decision and the weight of personal responsibility were clearly presented. The sermon was given the closest attention throughout.

There will be no services tonight, but preaching morning and evening on Sunday and at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon Mr. MacLane will give a "personal-purity talk" to men only. No boys under 14 years of age will be admitted to this lecture, but all men are cordially invited.

"Influence" was the theme of Evangelist Pract's sermon last night at the Memorial Baptist Church. The Mosaic law stipulated that if a man kindled a fire and it burned his neighbor's field of grain, "he that kindled the fire shall make restitution." So he that carelessly exerts an evil influence and his comrade's life is injured, shall be held for his setting an influence in motion which he could not stop in its onward course of injury. A man who writes an jerjin bolike sets an evil influence in motion which he cannot stop. A man who lives a godless life sets an example whose influence extends all about him and lasts long after him.

Sunday will be Mr. Pract's last day of labor here, and he will preach both morning and evening.

More About the Shooting Scrape-The Outlook for a Sunday-closing Struggle—Some Brief Mention.

SAN BERNARDINO, March 8.—(Special Correspondence.) The inmates of "Old Rose Cottage," one of the most noted bagnics on First street, were startled yesterday afternoon about 5:30 o'clock by three shots proceeding from a room occupied by Nettie Jones, a recent arrival from Los Angeles. One of the inmates of the house burst in the door and found her own brother lying dead with a bullet hole in his head, the smoking thirty-eight-caliber revolver by his side, and near him Nettie Jones weitering in her own blood from a bullet-wound in the abdomen, and another in her cheek. The man is a notorious crook and all-round bad man from Los Angeles, named John W. Kellett. He had occupied the room alt the afternoon with the girl, and no sound of quarreling had been heard from them previous to the firing of the three shots in rapid succession. Nettie Jones was a very young girl, in her teens, and quite handsome, and had evidently come frum Los Angeles to avoid Kellett, who followed her, with the above fatal result. There is considerable doubt as to who used the revolver, the girl or the man. If the latter, then he must have fired the shot into his own head with his left hand. From the pusitions of the bodies and the wounds, many think the girl used the gun, killing him and then turned it upon herself, inflicting a couple of flesh wounds that are not as all dangerous, for the purpose of making it appear that she was the victim and not the murderer. Her real name is Eva McCletton, and her home at No. 1006 Alhambra avenue, Los Angeles.

The struggle at the coming city election four weeks from next Tuesday, will be over the Sunday-closing ordinance, and as all three papers advocate the repeal of the ordinance, the other side will issue a semi-weekly sheet under the editorial charge of W. L. Vestal, late of the Times-Index, through which to advocate their side of the question and hawing a close Sunday. The two parties are the Mercantile Union for repeal and Citizens' Union for retaining the ordinance.

An attempt was made to fit up two jury rooms in the Courthouse with beds for the accommodation of jurymen who fail to agree before the hour of retiring. After preparing the rooms and ordering a dozen beds, the judge evidently thought it too much luxury, and countermanded the order for the beds, leaving the recalcitrant jurymen to bunk on the floor wrapped in a pair of hobo blankets obtained from the fail supply.

The legal difficulties surrounding the Times-Index were settled yesterday, the Farmers' Exchange Bank, holding the judgment of the court against the plant for $5000, signing a contract allowing the proprietors of the paper eighteen months in which to liquidate the debt, and appointing J. A. Whitmore editor and general manager of the Times-Index during that period.
